ALABAMA NEWS.

Clipped From Our Exchanges and Put Into Short Paragraphs.

There is an Alliance guano factory near Lineville.

A large bed of brown ore is being developed near Fort Payne.

Opelika is to have electric lights in operation in a few days.

Fort Payne's new coke ovens will go into operation about the middle of May.

The Henderson steel works at Bessemer will make a run in a few days.

The Alabama Rolling mill at Gate City has started up after a short lay off.

A negro woman one hundred and ten years old recently died at Notasulga.

The city tax in Anniston is but one-half per cent, and the county tax but 4 mills on the dollar.

Pine lumber has advanced $2 per thousand since the 1st of January and the tendency is still upward.

There is $2,561.78 in the general fund of Tallapoosa county, as reported by the Grand Jury.

The number of mortgages filed for record in Chambers county is two hundred, less than for the same period last year.

Mr. Wm. Campbell, an aged man, was drowned last week a little below Tallahassee.

There was a re-union of the Confederate soldiers of Barbour county, last week, at Louisville, Gen. J. V. A. Sanford delivered an address.

It is thought that fruit trees that had not bloomed before the cold snap, will not bloom at all, as the sap was frozen.

The Framers Lumber Company is erecting buildings for its new plant at Fort Payne.

The chimneys of St. Michael's Episcopal church at Anniston cost $9,000.

The amount to be received by Alabama this year from the Peabody educational fund is $8,000.

The citizens of Tuscaloosa will give the Warrior Guards $1,000 with which to fit up an armory.

The DeBardeleben furnaces at Bessemer will blow in at an early date, making twenty-six furnaces in blast in the district.

Thomas Brantley, of Columbia, has fallen heir to about $10,000. An uncle in Macon, Ga., died leaving $100,000, and Brantley is one of the heirs.

Steps have been taken to revive the Allumni association of the Medical College of Alabama, which has been defunct since 1872.

The Morris-Goss Mining Company of Carbon Hill shipped their first coal on the 21st inst—three car loads to Memphis.

W. T. Kirkland proposes to be one of the one hundred men to pay off the debt of the Abbeville court house. The total indebtedness is said to be about $10,000.

It is said that the people of Henry county are tired of the two-court business. The terms are held alternately at Columbia and Abbeville. They want it held altogether at the latter place.

The citizens of Bluffton, in Cherokee county, have given $500,000 to the Methodist church for the location of an educational institution, the entire cost of which is to be $1,500,000. Such men know how to build up a town.

Geneva Record: Our neighboring county, Henry, is working up a reputation for lawlessness, murder and public disregard of law which must work badly for her future. We are told on what we think good authority that the reckless turning loose upon society of men whose hands reek with innocent blood disgusted the court so much that a week's relaxation was needed to place it in trim for its duties in Geneva.

Clayton Courier: On Friday morning of last week the Clayton Gun Club killed 314 birds, and on Monday morning this week it killed 297—making a total for the two days of 611, Mr. L. M. Passmore leading in the number killed, having killed on Friday 57 and on Monday 65, the average being 61 1-10 to each shooter.

Troy Enquirer: The storm of last Saturday was much more violent between Bullock and Henderson than anywhere else along its path.

Many farmers think that a great number of the forest trees, yellow pines excepted, were killed during the late spell of cold weather.

There will be no peach crop in this county the present year, and it is thought by many that the trees are killed outright, not by freezes, but by the borers and a kind of blight.

The square and wagon yards were packed with wagons, mules and horses last Saturday. It looked as though every one in the State took a notion to be in Troy. The merchants went to their homes that night rejoicing.

GUBERNATORIAL.

THE DIFFERENT CANDIDATES AND MATTERS DISCUSSED.

About the Tariff.

Russellville Idea.

We again ask the question, what are the tariff views of Col. Joseph Johnston, of Birmingham?

Smooth the Crooked Way.

Crook seems to be coming to the front as a candidate for Governor. He is a Christian, a farmer, an able and good Democrat. The Crooked way may be made smooth.

Favorably Commented On.

Capt. Crook's candidacy for Governor is commented on favorably by the press all over the State. He is recognized as an honest, straightforward gentleman—a life long Democrat, and a man who would reflect credit upon Alabama as her next Governor. "Honest Jim Crook" is the coming man!

Vote as Democrats.

This talk of farmer Governors and farmer candidates is very unwise. Montgomery Advertiser.

Eminently right. Let the farmers attend the primaries, let the merchants attend the primaries, let the lawyers attend the primaries—and all come as Democrats.

Daily Growing Brighter.

Hon. William Richardson, the next Governor of Alabama, was in town this week. He has many friends in this county and they will be glad to learn that his prospects for the nomination are daily growing brighter. He is the only candidate in the field from North Alabama, and as such will go down to the convention with a strong following.

Secured the First Victory.

Judge Richardson has scored the first victory for the Governorship by capturing the solid delegation to the State Convention from Blount county. This county is in the Seventh Congressional district in which Capt. Crook, another prominent candidate, lives.—Florence Herald.

If the delegation came forward and voluntarily surrendered to the Judge, it is an honor to him, but if he "captured" them like the skilled military hero often takes the enemy by surprise, or, like the angels are said to visit men unawares, then we have a different view of it.

East Alabama Has a Candidate.

The friends of Col. Sanford in East Alabama are clamorous in their calls for his announcement as a candidate for Governor, so says the Dadeville New Era. We respectfully inform the voters of East Alabama that Col. Thomas Jones is an avowed candidate for that office and although we have no doubt that Col. Sanford is all right, we boldly assert that the name of a superior to Col. Jones has not yet been named for the office of Governor of Alabama.

Devoted and Untiring.

Capt. Joseph F. Johnston, formerly of Dallas county, but now of Birmingham, has entered the race for the Democratic nomination for Governor. Our knowledge of Captain Johnston dates back to "reconstruction" times, and no more courageous, devoted and untiring Democrat than he was identified with that struggle to restore the supremacy of intelligence and worth. He is a man of irreproachable character, recognized ability, tried patriotism and affable deportment, and as Governor of Alabama would reflect honor on his State and people.

A True and Tried Son.

Since Capt. Sam Blackwell has concluded not to enter the race for Governor, there will be only one candidate for Governor from this district. This unties our hands, and we can now all unite on Madison's honored and favored son.

Judge William Richardson is one of the true and tried sons of Alabama. When a mere boy he raised a company of volunteers, and entered the Confederate Army, and he and his gallant company distinguished themselves on the field of battle for their undaunted courage and bravery.

Revises the Prophecy.

Some time back the Progress predicted that the gubernatorial race would be between Jones and Richardson, which prophecy we have noted in some of the State papers. At that time the only avowed candidates in the field were Jones, Richardson and Kolb. Now that Maj. Crook and Capt. Johnston have entered the race, the Progress feels its duty to retain its reputation as a prophet and state that the contest is now between Jones, Richardson, Crook and Johnston. The Progress has no special candidate, and thinks either of the four above named gentlemen good enough for any office.

Jones Fills the Measure.

As long as Alabama can have but one Governor, let us take the very best man in the State. A man who is a statesman, soldier, scholar and gentleman; who as a soldier has served his State as only true bravery and the utmost coolness could have served her; who on the floor of her legislative halls has won credit for himself and honor to his constituency; whose every act in the service of his State, whether civil or military, has been for the public good. We salute to Col. Thos. G. Jones, of Montgomery.

Will Make a Strong Race.

Col. Joseph F. Johnston is going to make a very strong race for Governor of Alabama, and the man who beats him will have to be very lively. He is a Black Belt Democrat, and will receive a good vote from the section he helped to redeem from Radical misrule. But as to that matter, as much can be said in favor of Col. Thos. G. Jones, who is also a candidate for the same position. Verily, it is beyond the reach and ken of men to foretell at this date, who will be victorious in the contest, for Richardson has his friends, Kolb his, and Crook his. May the best man win!

Col. Thos. G. Jones.

The gubernatorial contest is now waxing warm, and the relative merits of the different candidates are being widely discussed by the sovereigns.

Among the aspirants are four distinguished gentlemen, any one of whom would fill the position with credit to himself and honor to the State. It is a hopeful sign of the times and augurs well for the future of our State when so distinguished an array of leading citizens enter the race for this distinction. With such a quartette as Jones, Johnston, Crook and Richardson to select from, the Democracy of Alabama cannot make a mistake. Any one of them would make a Governor of whom all Alabama would be proud.

All of these gentlemen, with one exception, having therefore received special mention through our columns and that equal justice may be done to all we pen this article to invite attention to the claims and merits of the remaining one—Col. Thos. G. Jones, of Montgomery. Among his distinguished competitors he stands the peer of all. As a soldier, as a citizen, as a legislator, and as an attorney he is an honor to Alabama. As a man of executive ability he has demonstrated on many different occasions that he has few superiors. Of incorruptible integrity and of unserving devotion to the cause of justice and right he is a man who holds the full confidence and esteem of his friends, and commands the admiration and respect of all. A true man in every particular and one who has the best interests of his State and people at heart, the executive office would be safe in his hands. Whether the voice of the Democracy in Alabama shall select him for the executive head of the Government for the next term, or shall continue him in the private walks of life, Alabama has no truer or worthier son.

Justice, Honesty, Unity.

We regret to see that in the first county convention for the gubernatorial campaign of the present year there is a spirit of wrong and injustice, causing dissatisfaction and disunion. A spirit of autoeracy usurps the throne which the spirit of Democracy should occupy, and all the candidates but one are denied their rights and deprived of representation in the State Convention. Blount County held her convention last week and appointed delegates to State and Congressional conventions, instructing the former to vote solidly for Richardson for Governor, and allowing the other candidates, who have a considerable following, no representatives at all. It seems that the chairman of the convention was a Richardson man, and following the spirit of intolerance and of injustice which characterizes Speaker Reid, of Maine, he would hear nothing, see nothing and recognize nothing that was not favorable for Richardson. The Democratic party will not allow things to be run on this principle. It cannot afford to do it. Crook and Kolb and Jones and Johnston are as justly entitled to their rights in Blount county as in the State Convention. No one would be guilty of an attempt to defraud any of these candidates of their rights in the convention at Montgomery; yet they cannot get justice there unless an honest representation is sent up from all the counties in the State. The peace, harmony and unity of the Democratic party demand that justice be done in the start of political action—in the best primaries—and then in every successive step that the custom of the party demands. The masses of the people for whom the benefits of government are intended—the greatest good to the greatest number—are not candidates, and care little for candidates, aside from a proper administration of official trusts. They esteem justice and right and, hence, harmony and unity, insuring peace and good Government, as far more important than the success of any candidate or of any number of candidates.—Let the leaders of the party show more love of principle than of men, and, by honesty and fair dealing, conciliate and unify the party.

None With More Backbone.

We hope that Capt. Johnston will have as easy a race in the gubernatorial struggle, when the State Convention meets in Montgomery, as he had in the Dallas primaries. There may be men in that contest who will have more of the power called personal magnetism than he—though we do not mean to insinuate that he is lacking here—but we are sure that none of his competitors will have in times of trouble more of the article called "back bone" than will the choice of Dallas county. That in-born gift of knowing without thinking, almost, what to do in emergencies, the instinct of doing the proper thing at the proper time, which is the distinguishing mark of all great leaders, is pre-eminently his. When the whole Southern atmosphere, which should in this glad spring-time be fragrant with the breath of a thousand flowers, is laden with the odor of Africa aroused by Federal election bills, these qualities in a proposed leader should outweigh with the people of Alabama any trick of personal grace or popular charm of captivating cleverness. Times such as we will properly have, when the Cabot Lodge election bill becomes a law, demand a man like Johnston in the gubernatorial chair of Alabama.

Of Irreproachable Character.

Capt. Joseph F. Johnston, of Birmingham, is formally announced as a candidate for Governor. He is one of the ablest men in the state and of irreproachable character.

Crook the Favorite in Clay.

Of all the candidates now in the field for gubernatorial honors, Capt. Crook is the favorite of a majority of the people of Clay county. He is a successful farmer, and would represent the interests of the farmers of the State as ably and faithfully as any other man that could be called to this high position of preference and honor. We shall be satisfied with Capt. Crook for our Governor.

Not to Hurt Richardson.

Capt. Samuel Blackwell, of Morgan county, has very sensibly declined to enter the race for Governor. Judge Wm. Richardson has practically the whole of North Alabama solid for him. Col. Joseph F. Johnston will have a good local support from Jefferson, and Col. Crook will have the support of Calhoun, but it is not thought their candidacy will hurt Richardson's strength.

Put Upon Notice.

The Democratic party of the State of Alabama has been put upon notice that they must be very careful of their action at the approaching State Convention. The Republican party has called its Convention to meet in Montgomery on the 4th day of June, just one week after the Democratic Convention. The leadership of this party is in the hands of Dr. R. A. Moseley, one of the shrewdest political tricksters in the South. Moseley in his letter sets forth the fact that he is on the watch to take advantage of any mistake the Democrats may make in their nomination.

Better Watch the Edges.

Major James Crook, of Jacksonville, has undoubtedly entered the race for the gubernatorial chair. His resignation as a member of the State Executive Committee settled all doubts on that score. We have long since concluded that if Major Crook entered the race, other aspirants for the Governorship had better watch the edges.

Major Crook is one of the solid, practical men of this great State. He is an able man and would make an excellent Governor. He has been connected with the University of Alabama as one of its trustees for sixteen years, and, owing to his relation to the young men who have graduated from that grand old institution, he is one of the best known men in the State. He is a genuine true friend to the young men of his country, always ready and willing to help them. Major Crook is plain and unassuming in his manners, and is one of Alabama's most progressive citizens.

DUNCAN T. PARKER.

He Is Buried by Those Who Loved Him—His Good Deeds.

ANNISTON, March 30.—The remains of Mr. Duncan T. Parker were laid to rest this afternoon at 2 o'clock in Hillside cemetery, by the side of his wife and little son Duncan, who preceded him over the river hardly a year. Funeral services were held at the Parker Memorial Baptist church by Rev. George B. Eager, the pastor, and Rev. R. M. DuBose of the First Presbyterian church.

The funeral procession was very large, and consisted of all classes of people, from the pauper, to the capitalist. The city was draped in mourning early yesterday morning, and sorrow has filled the hearts and homes of Anniston's people since his death became known.

Mr. Parker leaves three daughters, Mrs. W. W. Stringfellow and Misses Lillie and Minnie Parker, and two sons, Mrs. Frye and Miss Parker, who were with him in his last hours. His brothers, Prof. W. A. Parker of the State University, and Col. J. J. Parker, of Mobile, came up this morning and attended his body to its last resting place.

Besides being a director in the Alabama iron and coal company, Mr. Parker was president of the first national bank, was a director in the Anniston city land company and was prominently connected with several other institutions. He was the founder of the Parker free school which provides for the education of 150 pupils, and was just completing an elegant $75,000 church building for the Baptist denomination.

Duncan Parker did not seek man's applause, for the great bulk of his charitable gifts were made in private, and as long as there is a spark of gratitude in the human breast, the memory of D. T. Parker will hold no second place in the hearts of the people who knew him.

SIX TIMES MARRIED.

A Former Alabamian at the End of His Tether.

The Russellville, Ark., Democrat gives an account of the escapades of a former Alabamian, who will be remembered in the neighborhood of Talladega and Newbern, where he started out on his wild career. In its issue of Thursday last the Democrat says:

"Patrick Sparrow Weathers, a former citizen of Russellville, but for several months a wanderer in other climes, arrived at this place last Saturday and was immediately placed under arrest by Deputy Sheriff Strickland, charged with bigamy."

After careful investigation a remarkable story of deception, perjury and crime has been unearthed, furnishing a history replete with features as astounding as they are shocking.

Weathers' first wife was a Miss Sallie Stone, of Talladega, Ala. He married her in 1864 and deserted her in 1865. This wife is now dead. In Newbern, Ala., in 1866, he married Miss Mary S. Sparrow (the father of whom he was named for). While living with this wife he seduced her sister, and securing $800 from his mother-in-law fled the country, going finally to Texas, where, in June, 1872, he married Miss Josie L. Petteway, at Danville, in Montgomery county. He married this lady under the assumed name of D. C. Norris. Before a year had passed this wife found a letter in his possession written to Miss Bell Sparrow (the lady seduced by him) asking her to come to him. To this letter he signed his true name. His wife confronted him with it, he acknowledged its authorship and told her he had been living under an assumed name. Shortly after this he left her and went to the Indian Territory. The Texas wife has reason to believe he was married in the territory, but cannot locate the place nor date of the marriage. From the territory he went to Missouri and brought up at the house of an aged Presbyterian minister at Mt. Vernon. Here he had a severe illness and when about to die gave the address of his relatives in Alabama. When he recovered he tried to marry the young daughter of the minister at whose house he had been cared for. Being prudent a letter was written to the address given and the information was returned that he was already a married man. This young lady whom he tried to marry was none other than Miss Annie Miller, well remembered by our citizens as being here about three years ago teaching art lessons. She met her former admirer at the hotel where she stopped and recognized him as the same man she had been saved from marrying. Leaving Mount Vernon, he went to another place in Missouri and eloped with the 14-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison.

After living at Fayetteville awhile, he came here and secured employment with Luker, Davis & Co. His wife came later. After the burning of the wagon shop he went to Dardanelle and worked a few months, going from there to Mulberry. Sometime after this he carried his wife and child to her father's, and left them destitute. He returned to Russellville and again went to work for Luker, Davis & Co. leading apparently an exemplary life. He joined the Methodist church, led in prayer-meeting and prayed in public, thereby gaining the confidence of a number of good citizens. On December 2, 1885, he was married in Dardanelle to Mrs. M. E. Webb, a widow lady living in this place. After living with her six months he induced a woman to come from Hot Springs and live in the family and from that date trouble began. Soon after he went to Little Rock and worked in the wagon shop of Fred Roesh. After several months, getting wind of trouble brewing, he skipped out, going by way of St. Louis and securing money from four different firms from whom his Russellville wife bought millinery goods. Although the earth had swallowed him. On last Wednesday, 19th instant, a telegram was received by his wife from W. O. Rogers, at Texarkana, asking for money to enable the wanderer to return home. The money was sent and on Saturday he arrived, expecting, doubtless, to receive a cordial welcome and full forgiveness for his past misdeeds. Instead, he was taken in custody and informed of the overwhelming proof against him. He bore up bravely under the ordeal, and was taken to Dardanelle, where the last act in his matrimonial adventures, so far as heard from, was performed. His examining trial is set for next Friday. It is understood that he has travelled extensively since leaving Little Rock, having made two trips to South America. He has been prominent in the I. O. O. F. and R. A. M. secret societies, and had on his person when arrested a card of membership in the Y. M. C. A., which he destroyed. It is but justice to say that his parents and other relatives belong to the best families of Alabama, and the subject of this sketch was well raised and amply educated. Dissipation and fondness for forming matrimonial alliances have been his ruin.

The Fire of Disease is Always Driven from the System by Swift's Specific (S. S. S.).

Do you feel that the terrible fire of Blood Poison is consuming you?—that the poisonous virus is vitiating and corrupting your physical system?—that it is invading your moral nature and stunning your aspirations for manliness and domestic happiness? Does the hideous nightmare face you night and day that you are a victim of this monster which has been on the warpath for five centuries, scourging the human race by the thousands and tens of thousands, and which is regarded and acknowledged by many learned men to be incurable? Then we say, come to us and we will cure you. Turn your back on all the old worn-out poisons, as mercury, potash, arsenic and like compounds so ruinous to health, and take S. S. S., which we assert does cure, and we are prepared to prove it.

The Beauty of Health.

How many women with regular features that might be beautiful, are not, and instead of awakening our admiration only arouse our pity. Their hollow eyes and sunken cheeks and sallow skin haunt our memory. Alas! an invalid wife or mother or sister fills the house with gloom and sadness, and an otherwise happy fire-side is shadowed with a pall of regret. Blessed be the physician who has invented a remedy with a power to strengthen the female organization, that regulates the delicate functions of feminine life, that relieves those bearing-down pains, that renews the appetite, that perfects digestion, that brightens the eyes and beautifies the complexion with the glow of health. Such a remedy is Dr. Bull's Sarsaparilla. It is the woman's best friend for counteracting the evils that afflict her sex. Thousands of ladies owe their beauty to a use of this incomparable alternative. Demand it of your druggist. Take no other.—Paris News.

A Mormon settlement is thriving at the foot of Pilot Mountain, North Carolina.

There are 2,952 sub and 55 county alliances in North Carolina.

A stock company has been organized for the purpose of erecting a fine $50,000 hotel in Salisbury, N. C.

The citizens of Knoxville are trying to get up an agricultural and mineral exhibition.

It is rumored that the available funds for building the new city at Fort Tampa starts with $200,000, and as much more as may be needed back of it.

Job Biggs, the mail carrier on the Campbell, N. C., route, delivers his mail to the offices on foot, walking twenty-four miles one day and thirty-one miles next day. During a year he steps over 8,454 miles, and at this rate would cover the circuit of the globe in three years, exclusive of Sundays.

A Knoxville barber shaved a man recently who resides in the Smoky Mountains, and whose beard has been growing since the battle of Chickamauga. The man, whose name is Harner, was in the Confederate army, and shaved the day before the battle, and had not shaved since. He said he had got tired of wearing so much hair and wanted it removed. When he returns home his family will not recognize him.

So many alligators are shot for the mere sport of shooting in the southern states, says the Boston Journal, that they are becoming scarce, and it is only in unfrequented streams and impenetrable swamps that they are now numerous. The demand for full grown alligators for northern museums and aquariums begins with the warm days of spring, and many an alligator's retreat has been carefully marked by the alligator catchers, who, when the signs are ripe, will dig the saurians out and sell them at from one to two dollars per foot, according to the length of the animals. The negroes loop ropes around the big alligators, and drag them out in triumph.

The Lame Walk.

Pitiful indeed is the condition of those who are confined to their beds or chairs unable to walk. How grateful all such must feel when they recover from their helplessness. B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm) has made more than one lame person happy.

Mrs. Emma Griffiths, Union, Tenn. writes: "My little boy had scrofula so bad his knees were drawn up and his knees stiff, and he could not walk. He derived no benefit from medicines until I tried B. B. B. After using it a short time only, he can walk and has no pain. I shall continue its use."

Mildie M. Tanner, Boonville, Ind., writes: "I had blood poison from birth. Knots on my limbs were as large as hen's eggs. Doctors said I would be a cripple, but B. B. B. has cured me sound and well. I shall ever praise the day the men who invented Blood Balm were born."

The Rev. Geo. H. Thayer, of Bourbon, Ind., says: "Both myself and wife owe our lives to Shiloh's consumption cure."

In a Northern State having a population as dense as ours, one finds a thrifty village every five miles along the lines of railroad, and hundreds of them are located in the country, away from railroads. Since the south has become essentially a manufacturing as well as an agricultural country, its people need the same conveniences in obtaining supplies and selling products as are found necessary in the North, where industry is diversified. We need more good towns, many more, as centers of education, culture refinement, no less than as necessities of trade and manufacture.—Chattanooga Times.

Louis the Fourteenth's Joke.

Louis the Fourteenth, of France, had in his court a nobleman known to be inordinately anxious for distinction. One day the King asked him if he understood the Spanish language. "No, sire," was the answer. "That is unfortunate," said the King. The nobleman at once conjectured that the King wished to make him Ambassador to Madrid, and, employing a teacher, he forthwith applied himself day and night to acquiring the language. At last, pale and exhausted, but with a satisfied, expectant look upon his face, he came to the King with the announcement: "Sire, I can now speak Spanish."

"Do you understand it well enough to converse intelligently with a Spaniard?" "Yes, sire," the man answered, his heart beating high in anticipation. "I wish you joy," said the King; "now you can read 'Don Quixote' in the original."—in Francisco Argonaut.

The Republican.

L. W. GRANT, Publisher.

APRIL 5, 1930.

Attend the primary meetings, and then you will have no cause to grumble at the action of the County Convention.

The Democrats have been scoring some more victories up in Wisconsin. Recently they carried Milwaukee by 6,000 majority. It looks as if the party had come in to stay in that State.

The new building on the Public Square, recently erected by Major Rowan, has been rented for bank purposes, and Jacksonville will soon have her First National Bank. In less than a year she will have her Second National Bank.

The land sale in Anniston was a great success, over one hundred thousand dollars worth of property being sold. The visit of Eastern parties to the city will likely result in the establishment of more manufacturing enterprises there.

Capt. Jas. Crook has been absent from home a week, visiting various portions of the State in the interest of his candidacy for Governor. From this time forward all the candidates will be mixing freely with the people until the convention meets.

The Shelby land sale was a grand success. There is no reason in the world why there should not be a fine manufacturing town at Shelby; or, as for that reason, at all the manufacturing towns projected in this brown hemetite region. There are plenty of resources to back them and the country is beautiful beyond description.

The Republican is neither for nor against any man for Representative, nor does this paper care a snap what section of the county he comes from. The next Legislature will be a most important one, so far as the interest of this county is concerned, and the Republican only wants a broad-gauge man. Such a man the people ought to demand in the Convention.

It appears that we are not to miss the Chattanooga Southern Railroad after all. It will diverge at Menlo, Ga. and go to Gadsden; but it will also come straight on by way of Piedmont and Jacksonville to Anniston as at first contemplated. We print an advertisement this week giving date when books of subscription will be open at Jacksonville. This is preliminary to obtaining a charter through this county.

In view of the candidacy of Capt. Crook for Governor, the REPUBLICAN cannot take a hand in the race for other of the State offices among our friends. There are several clever gentlemen among them for whom we would be glad to say a word; but we do not want to do anything that will in the slightest degree prejudice the interests of our townsmen. It is true that Capt. Crook does not in any way control the policy of this paper, but this might not be understood, and we prefer to be silent.

The next Legislature will have to re-district the State as to Senatorial if not Congressional districts, and will also have to reapportion the representation. Calhoun county will most probably be entitled to two representatives; but as the House can have only 100 members, under the Constitution, the additional representative will have to come from some other county now having more than one. There will certainly be a sharp contest at this point; and hence, if Calhoun wants her rights, she ought to be careful to send a capable and active man to the lower house of the Legislature.

We have received in the past two weeks communications suggesting the name of Mr. L. D. Miller for the Legislature; but at his request have not published them. He has not and will not be a candidate under any circumstances. It is useless for us to say that Mr. Miller would have made a fine Representative and that his candidacy would have been entirely satisfactory to the REPUBLICAN; but Mr. Miller's best personal interests require that he shall keep out of politics for the present. Moreover he thinks that, with his position in the Alliance, if he should now run for office, all the work he has done for the Alliance might be charged to selfish political motive, and the order be injured to that extent.

That greatest evening paper in Alabama, the Birmingham Evening News, has absorbed the Birmingham Evening Chronicle and will henceforth be better than ever before. We have made arrangements to club with the weekly News, for a dollar and a half for both papers, and allow our subscribers to participate in the great Distribution of prizes July 1st next, at which time seven hundred and fifty dollars in gold will be given away. Pay up old scores and come into some one of the gift combinations we are offering. A more extended announcement of the clubbing with the Evening News will be given next week. We have asked the News to send specimen copies to each one of our subscribers.

Duncan T. Parker.

This section of the State particularly and the whole State generally have sustained an irreparable loss in the death of Mr. Duncan T. Parker, of Anniston. He was the foremost developer of the State. His was a broad and comprehensive mind, wise to plan and bold to execute. He was emphatically a leader among men; yet he was so kind and gentle and modest with it all, that, but for his work, men would never have known him for what he really was. The death of no other public man in the State has carried with it a sense of personal bereavement to so many hearts. He was not only universally respected but universally loved. While planning and executing great enterprises, he could always find time for the amenities of social life or the gentle ministrations of charity. Many a struggling young man whom he has aided will shed a tear over his private charity will bless his memory, while the bustling, rushing business world will remember him for the splendid monuments in thriving towns and busy industries, which are the work of his genius and capacity.

Last week the most destructive cyclone ever recorded in the history of this country swept through several States, doing its worst in Kentucky and Tennessee. The cyclone plowed right through the heart of the city of Louisville, Kentucky, prostrating every house in its path for over a mile in length, killing hundreds of people and injuring a great many more. The town of Fayetteville, Tennessee, was wiped almost completely out and several people were killed and wounded. Many towns both in towns and country and its path is marked by utter desolation. So severe was it that even the growing wheat was scraped from the earth as with a plow. Great destruction exists along the path of the storm and the tales of sorrow that have followed it are heartrending in the extreme. We could not attempt in our limited space to tell one-tenth of the destruction, death and sorrow caused by the storm. Happy families, that had retired that night with joyous expectation of a re-union around the family board with the coming morning, awoke amid the darkness of the raging elements to find themselves shelterless and bereaved, in some cases nearly every member having been killed. Prosperous men retired that night to awake paupers and the coming day only served to show them the appalling extent of their losses. The storm carries its lesson. It teaches of the transitory nature of all things earthly. There is only one sure foundation, against which the floods may come and the storm beat in vain. That is Rock of Ages. Let us put our faith more in God, and live more for the things to come than for things present.

It is hard to tell which is the more appalling calamity—the recent terrible cyclone, or the floods caused by the rise of the Mississippi river, and the inundation of a great part of the delta country. The breaks in the levees of the Mississippi have been frequent and enormous and for over a week enormous quantities of water have been pouring through the gaps made into the low countries of Arkansas, Mississippi and Louisiana. An area larger than a State has been completely submerged, cattle have been drowned, the people are living on the tops of floating houses or are huddled in the gin houses of plantations. There is great suffering and destitution among them and the government, by act of Congress, is sending boats to rescue them. The present flood exceeds in extent any that has preceded it, and it is not yet over. One excited member of the government signal service has predicted the complete destruction of New Orleans; but this direful prophecy is bootied at by the press of New Orleans, which has called upon the government to remove the offending signal service officer. It is bad enough, however. The dispatches record the fact daily of hundreds fleeing for their lives as the mighty torrent sweeps its way over territory broad enough for an empire and rich enough in soil to feed the world.

There is no doubt but that with the subsidence of the flood along the Mississippi, there will be a great demand for cotton seed. No doubt most of that held by Mississippi river cotton planters has been destroyed. We who have been fortunate in good seasons and blessed with freedom from cyclones and floods should be willing to help those in the overflowed districts who have suffered so severely, and we can do this by dividing cotton seed with them. We would suggest, therefore, that farmers of this section cease feeding their surplus seed to stock and hold them for the planters of the overflowed district, who will be sure to need them. This policy should be pursued by the farmers of all the South outside the overflowed district.

The REPUBLICAN presents quite a batch of press opinions on the subject of the Governorship this issue. We want our readers to keep posted as to all the aspirants discussed by the press. It will be noted that our fellow-townsmen stands his hand with the best of them among the newspapers of the State.

TOBACCO TAX.

A Full Text of the Tobacco Schedule Proposed.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—The full text of the tobacco schedule of the republican tariff bill, which was yesterday submitted to the full committee on ways and means by Chairman McKinley, is as follows:

Schedule F—Tobacco and manufacturer of leaf tobacco suitable for cigar wrappers, if not stemmed, $2 per pound; if stemmed $2.75 per pound; provided, that if any portion of any tobacco imported in any bale, box or package, or in bulk, shall be suitable for cigar wrappers, the entire quantity of tobacco contained in such bale, box, or package, or bulk, shall be dutiable, if not stemmed, at $2 per pound; if stemmed, at $2.75 per pound. All other tobacco in leaf unmanufactured and not stemmed, 35 cents per pound; if stemmed, 50 cents per pound. Tobacco manufactured of all descriptions not specially enumerated or provided for in this act, 40 cents per pound. Snuff and snuff flour manufactured of tobacco, ground, dry or damp, and pickled, scented or otherwise, of all descriptions, 50 cents per pound. Cigars, cigarettes and cheroots of all kinds, $5 per pound and 25 per cent ad valorem, but paper cigars and cigarettes, including wrappers, shall be subject to the same duties as are herein imposed upon cigars.

Negro Killed by White Men.

John Blount, a negro about 35 years old, was shot and killed at the new turnpike Thursday night about eleven o'clock by Bob Jeffries, a miner, and Will Coleman, a fireman on the switch engine, both white. The negro died shortly after being shot. He was shot twice with a pistol. Jeffries and Coleman left immediately for unknown parts.

It is not known exactly how the killing came about, but it is thought that the negro had reported the white men for not working the roads, and Thursday night he passed Jeffries' house drunk, and making night hideous with cursing and howling, and it is said the men shot him for that reason. There is no clue as to where the murderers have gone.—Gadsden Times.

Chattanooga Southern.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., April 2.—C. E. James, president of the Chattanooga Southern railroad, to-day awarded the contract for building the whole line of road from Chattanooga to Gadsden, Ala., a distance of eighty miles, the road to be completed and running within six months. Work will be commenced from the Gadsden end on Monday, and several hundred hands are already at work at this end. The line is to be extended from Gadsden to Birmingham and Montgomery, Ala.

Willin' to "Drop the Case."

A good story is told of an old negro in Albany, who was brought up on a charge of stealing, and tried in superior court during Judge Wright's time.

The case was presented to the court by a prominent young attorney, and the solicitor. The old negro was ordered to stand up.

"Have you a lawyer?" asked the court.

"Naw sah!"

"Are you able to employ one?"

"Naw sah!"

"Do you want a lawyer to defend your case?"

"Not Pertiekler, sah."

"Well, what do you propose to do about the case?"

"We'll—ll—ll," with a yawn as it wearied of the thing, "I'm willin' ter drop de case, s'far as I'm concerned."

This brought down the house, and it was some time before order could be restored.

The Birmingham Age-Herald is sending out the prizes drawn at the late distribution, March 13th.

Mr. J. D. Smith, of Marrenco county, and wife are visiting relatives in Jacksonville.

Mr. Floy Henderson, of Raglan, is visiting his parents here this week.

Col. G. C. Ellis, of this place, visited Gadsden this week on professional business.

Mr. W. H. Dean went over and spent last Sunday with the Gadsdenites.

Mr. E. S. Whisenant, one of Etowah county's most progressive young farmers, was in Jacksonville Sunday visiting his parents.

Rev. W. T. Allen, of Jacksonville, has been in the city for several days. He held his regular services at the Episcopal church last Sunday—Gadsden Times.

We will make special low rates with real estate agents for advertising in local columns setting forth property they have for sale.

Mr. Joe H. Busby, of Oakland, Illinois, has been in town this week since Thursday taking in the beauty and possibilities of Jacksonville. It is needless to say that he is pleased.

The visitors from Maine paid the State Normal School a visit Wednesday and were much pleased with the practical work of the school as witnessed by them.

Mr. S. P. Sheffield, of the Bessemer Weekly, was in Jacksonville Wednesday looking over the town and expressed himself as highly pleased with the outlook.

Maj. T. W. Francis is in town. He speaks of building and settling in Jacksonville—we very much hope he will. He is a man of means and of great public spirit and would be a fine acquisition to any town.

Messrs. L. C. Emery, John Patterson and W. H. Herdell, of Skowhegan, Maine, and Messrs. D. J. Callahan, Chas. Greenwood and N. D. Hoxie, of Lewiston, Maine, were in Jacksonville Wednesday looking over the town. They expressed themselves as very highly pleased.

Mr. W. C. Harrell, of Pleasant Hill, Dallas county, Ala., was in Jacksonville Wednesday. He came to look after some real estate he had bought here at the land sale of 1888, and was so much pleased with the outlook that he invested in a great deal more.

The Tredegar Inn, under the management of Mr. Gasser, is making a fine reputation. Every one who stops at it speaks of it in the very highest terms. Its appointments are fine and cuisine most excellent. Mr. Gasser draws upon Birmingham, Rome and other markets for his supply of beef and other table necessities.

The stockholders of the Jacksonville Mining and Manufacturing Co. is held at stiff prices by the Montgomery stockholders. They have confidence in their investment here. Eastern parties have bought stock of some of the Montgomery stockholders, but they have paid good prices.

We present this week the card of the Real Estate firm of R. W. Whisenant & Co. This firm is composed of Messrs. R. W. Whisenant, Jas. Crow and Hon. J. D. Hammond, the two latter gentlemen being merchants in Jacksonville. Mr. Whisenant is a planter. It is a strong firm which will do much to move real estate in Jacksonville.

IN MEMORIAM.

In memory of Mattie Letitia, only child of L. D. and Lizzie V. Miller aged one year five months and eleven days. This lovely little babe died March 20th 1890.

Oh, death why invade this afflicted home and extinguish the light and joy of the household? Why seize this beautiful little child just as she starts on life's journey with so promising a future? Why take a bright mind with every prospect of the culture and tender care necessary to develop a brilliant woman who might be a blessing to the world? Oh, death why not take instead some ill-clad, poorly fed street waif who is entering upon a life of poverty, hardship and misery? Such thoughts will present themselves in spite of our best efforts to keep them down, and where shall we find an answer? Only in God's holy word, and how gloriously sweet and comforting are the Scripture quotations below, when compared to a noted infidel's horrible and heart-breaking theory of the "survival of the fittest!"

"God chasteneth whom he loveth."
"He (she) cannot return to me but I can go to Him (her)"
"Suffer little children to come unto me and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of heaven."

CHURCH SERVICES TO-MORROW.

METHODIST.—Services at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m., by the pastor, Rev. T. A. Rogers.

Sunday School at 9:30. Prof. D. L. Earnest, Supt. Everybody cordially invited.

There will be no services at the Presbyterian and Baptist churches.

The following services may be expected in the Episcopal church:

Good Friday—"Crucifixion Day"—Service with holy communion at 3:30 P. M.

Saturday—Service at 4:30 P. M. Sunday—"Easter"—Early communion 6:30 A. M.

Service with sermon and holy communion 11 A. M.

The public are cordially invited to attend all these services. Special attention is called to the importance of Good Friday service. Those who hope to enjoy a resurrection at Easter must participate in a crucifixion. This service is, therefore, of equal importance with Easter.

W. T. ALLEN.

The Q. Q. B. R. R. Club was organized Tuesday evening, April 1st, with ten members.

Mr. Bernard G. West, Genl. Manager of the Jacksonville, Mining & Manufacturing Co. attended the land sale in Anniston April 3rd and availed himself of the opportunity to present the advantages of this point to visitors from the East. As a consequence several parties came up from Anniston to see the town and invest.

The real estate advertisement of I. L. Swan & Co. appears in this issue. Both are good men of great probity and business character. They will do their part in keeping real estate on the jump in Jacksonville. Mr. Swan is an employee in the Probate office and county Treasurer. Mr. Denman is an insurance agent. They have made some very extensive sales.

Piles! Piles! Itching Piles.

Symptoms—Moisture, intense itching and stinging most at night, worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. Swane's Ointment stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in most cases removes the tumors. At drug stores, or by mail, for 50 cents. Dr. Swane & Son, Philadelphia.

Real Estate has been more active here this week than any time since the movement in real estate began. More outside parties have bought this week than before, and some large transactions have been recorded. Property has advanced fully three hundred per cent in Jacksonville within the last thirty days. Deals continue to be made for spot cash and, as heretofore, very few transactions are on option. For the first time in the history of the town since the war, property commands ready and quick sale at prices far in advance of anything our people have ever hoped for. Still investments now being made will pay. Here soon will be an active manufacturing town.

NOTICE TO STOCKHOLDERS.

Notice is hereby given that the annual meeting of the Stockholders of the Jacksonville Mining & Manufacturing Company will be held at the office of the company in Jacksonville Calhoun county, Ala., on Wednesday the 9th day of April 1890.

A NEGRO LYNCHED.

FRANK GRIFFIN SWINGS FOR A HEINOUS CRIME AT STANTON.

BIRMINGHAM, March 29.—Last Wednesday morning while two little white girls, the daughters of George Moore and Miles Lally, were on their way to school a short distance from Stanton, Ala. in the Ocmulgee neighborhood, they were waylaid and both outraged by Frank Griffin a negro man. The negro escaped and was not captured until last night near the Cahaba river. He was brought back to the scene of his crime and placed under guard. During the night a mob of armed men in disguise overpowered the guards, took Frank to a dogwood tree and hanged him. The negro made a full confession just before he was tied up, and a volley of bullets was poured into him as he was swung.

The children he assaulted were aged 9 and 4 years respectively. The younger is thought to have been fatally injured.

"SPREAD OURSELVES" Not alone in the construction of the finest kinds 'twas possible to produce but also in the quantity and variety of styles necessary to meet the demands of our increasing business. 'Tis well we did for increase in the volume of our trade is in the light of revelation to us. We never thought it was possible to do such a business in our present space. We are, in fact and in truth, doing the cream of the Clothing and Furnishing Business of Anniston.

The point we wish to make is this: That the people's eyes have been opened to one or two important facts that, until lately, seemed to have escaped their notice. One that our prices are always uniformly reasonable. We neither mark our goods AWAY UP first of the season nor

In two when the season's over. Another is that others do those things, and consequently cannot afford to meet our prices. Add to these the fact we produce and sell only clothing of style and sterling merit. The finest is not too good for us to hand over for our patrons to buy and wear. The clothes we handle are of the good, reliable, honest kind that do not require sensational advertising to bring their merits before the people. In beauty of design, conception and make our dress and semi-dress suits and dress overcoats find no peers in these parts. We are not here to decry the wares of others—we are not built—that way—but we take a pardonable pride in the beauties of our own. There is no tailor living that can produce better made,

SOLID SOUTH.

Why It Is so—Reconstruction and Its Results—Famous Authors.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Representative Herbert of Alabama, Hemphill of South Carolina, Turner of Georgia, Stewart of Texas, Wilson of West Virginia, ex-Representative Barksdale of Mississippi and Senators Vance of North Carolina, Pasco of Florida, Vest of Missouri, W. M. Fishback of Arkansas, Ira P. Jones of Tennessee, O. S. Long of West Virginia and B. J. Sage of Louisiana, have collectively written and will soon publish a book entitled: "Why the Solid South; or, Reconstruction and Its Results." It undertakes to narrate, fairly and dispassionately, in concise and popular form, the history of the reconstructed governments in each State, showing how the Republicans obtained control and how they lost it; figures and facts as to shrinkage of values and the increase of debt and taxation under these governments, and the prosperity of the South under present auspices.

The book speaks of Abraham Lincoln's death as an appalling calamity to the South; argues that Andrew Johnson followed strictly Lincoln's plan of restoration, and contends that if Lincoln had lived he would have been able to defend that plan against the assaults of Congress. Each chapter is signed by its author, who thus becomes directly responsible for the truth of his statements, and the claim of the book in its preface (written by Gen. Herbert, its editor) is that in all Gen. Herbert's editorials is that in all the chapters facts are understated rather than overstated. The statement is made that there is no intention to agitate for a repeal of the fifteenth amendment or the deportation of the negroes. Educational and material statistics of many kinds are given in support of the contention that the negro is prospering, and that the South is solving for itself the negro question. The book is dedicated to the business men of the North, with the statement that they are interested in continuing the prosperity of the South.

Old Miss.

BY WILTON BURTON.
Birmingham Age-Herald.

After an absence of more than ten years, I again turned my face toward my native village. It was a balmy Sunday afternoon in early spring that I found myself approaching the well-remembered, but now somewhat altered, scenes of my childhood. I crossed the little stream greatly shrunken since I had last seen it, where once I had angled enthusiastically for perch and minnows; I passed a well-tilled field, where formerly had been a wood in which I had pursued and shot agile squirrels, and I drew near to the cemetery, situated on the outskirts of the village.

A Sabbath quiet reigned in the city of the dead, for the hour had not yet arrived for the troops of children and the maidens with their beaus to invade the sacred precincts and break the solemn stillness with irreverent laughter and frivolous speech. The gate stood invitingly open; the Sabbath calm suited my sober mood; there was no time to loiter and still finish my day's journey by the light of the sun; so I turned my willing horse into the gateway, and when I had found a convenient hitching post, dismounted to stroll through the grounds.

The place had grown since I had seen it last. In all these years death had not been idle. Humble hillocks and ambitious marble shafts had multiplied. The poor and the rich alike had fallen before the busy reaper. The old part of the graveyard—the part I had known—had been filled long ago, and a modern annex of several acres attested the flight of years and the relentless work of the grim enemy of mankind. With the annex I had nothing to do, for it was a burial ground of strangers to me. Its artistic arrangements, its costly tombs, its carefully trimmed shrubbery and gravel walks offered no attractions to draw me away from the weed-covered hillocks and the moss-stained marble of the old cemetery. It is true no kin of mine had ever been laid to rest in this neglected spot; but that mattered not. Among the silent sleepers were those bound to me by ties almost as strong as those of consanguinity—friends of my childhood and youth, schoolmates, teachers. It suited my mood to linger a while among these sepulchres—alas! how soon are the last resting places of our beloved dead forgotten—and to indulge in sad reveries, for just a few miles further on my pilgrimage would end at a lonely country graveyard, where, in all probability, my tears of penitence would fall upon a mound not less neglected than these.

As with slow steps and sad musings I made my way over the uncertain ground, my ear was suddenly saluted by a sound as of some one digging. Surprised, almost startled, I paused, and parting the rank growth of weeds with my hands, looked in the direction whence the sounds came. A few steps from me I espied an old negro man, hoe in hand, very busy clearing off a little plot of ground, in the center of which a little grass-grown mound, with toppling head board, marked the last resting place of some poor mortal.

"Full of surprise and curiosity, I exclaimed: "Who pays you to work on Sunday?" Turning suddenly, and shading his eyes with one hand, the old man calmly surveyed the unexpected intruder upon his privacy.

"I don't do it for pay," he said. "Leas'ways," correcting himself, "I done been paid for dis over and over long time ago. Dis ole miss grave. I dug hit wid my own han's. I was de onlies' one 'at de fambly what was de de fun'at." After she was laid at de fun'at I left yer. I des now come back. Nobody ain't been yer to ten' to dis grave, an' de weeds an' bristlers is took it. Hit look like po' folks' grave. Taint no hario to clean dis grave off on Sunday—leas'ways I'm gwine to do it, an' wen I git up yander an' face de judge, which hit won't be long, I'll say de good mos' ter set me de sample wen he was on de yeth, doing good works on Sunday, an' I'm hopes hit won't be set down 'gin me, case de good Lord knows, d'aint nothin' I kin do for ole miss now dat ud pay her for all she done for me."

"I don't think Sabbath breaking will be charged up against you for this," said I, touched by this unusual display of gratitude, "but tell me, where are the old lady's children?" A groan was the answer.

"Did she have none?" "Pity she never had none!" said the old man with feeling. "De little ole man with feelin'. An' dey mam-birds stays in de nest, an' dey mam-birds feed 'em an' ten's to 'em tell dey wings grows out; den she 'tains 'em to fly, and dey flies 'way."

"You don't mean they all deserted her in her old age, do you? Surely she must have given them cause, if they did."

"Cause, or no cause, dey left her. Wen de judge an' 'em what cause dey left her mammy for wen she was ole an' po', what dey gwine to say?"

"Well, ole miss was a strong mine

'oman, dey say. She didn't 'gree wid ever'body, an' I don't say she was right all de time. She quoll wid her chillun sometimes—all bit one. She never quoll wid dat'n. She quoll wid her niggers sometimes, but she nuss 'em wen dey bit sick. Cose she nuss 'em wen dey b'long to her, case if dey die she lose money. Dat was what I thought tell freedom come out, an' den I found out ole Miss good. I foun' her out like I never knowed her befo'."

"I was happy when I was sot free. Cose I was. Ever'thing love to be free an' go and come dout air pass an' not scared o' no paterlors. Cose I was happy. I was gittin' ole, but de young ones warn't no happier'n me. I want to git way 'om ole Miss. She was gittin' cross an' hard to please. Times bein' goin' bad wid her endurin' de war, an' ole age an' po'ness dey both croupe up on her at de same time, an' she never had no good word for nobody, ep'n one—dat'n whar I done tole you 'bout. I went 'way, I did, an' I tuck my fam'ly wid me, an' I was happy as a joree whar got a nest in de briar-patch side de swamp. But de tarry fever hit struck me, an' hit stretch me out on my bed. I was layin' mighty high death's do', mighty nigh, but bless God!" (and the exclamation was delivered with the force of earnestness)—"bless de beeb'nly fader! ole miss year'd 'bout me, an' she come. She was mighty ole to come dat far for ways in a buggy, but year'd de news, an' she come like an angel 'om heben in my cabin, an' dat how come I'm 'live now to tell de tale, an' I'm a cleanin' off dis grave in remembrance o' dat."

"Yes, sah, I hope to lay her way. She's des in a common pine coffin, des like po' folks—her whar was raise a lady, an' had niggers to come at her beck an' call."

"Tell me about her children," said I.

"Deiy aint much good to tell you. Hit ud be better not to tell it. Hit ud make you feel bad, young boss. Dey was strangers to you, an' de mo' you know 'bout 'em de less you'll like 'em. But ole miss was part to blame. I tole her so, but I wish now I hadn't. We all got our faults."

"She was lef' a widder whar yander fo' de war. She had two gals an' two boys. De two gals dey growed up an' got married an' move away off yander to Texas, an' I reckon dey're dar now, 'cep'n dey're dead. Dey never come back after de war 'case dey knowed ole miss done los' all her property. Dey 'lowed ole miss never did treat 'em right, nobow. Dey tole her so to her face agin an' agin. Dey 'lowed she made a big diff'ence twix' dem an' de baby, an' hit was so, too, case I seed it wid my own eyes. Ole miss was gittin' ole an' chil'ish, you know," he added, apologetically. "Her ol'est son was a fine boy," he continued.

"Didn't make no diff'ence how ole miss treat him, he stuck to her tho' thick an' thin. We've had times come an' she hit back sump'n nice for de baby, an' never gin him none, he never had nair word to say. I never year'd him open his mouf but once 'bout dat. He tole his maw he was 'feared dat boy ud never larn to take keer himself if he kep' on doin' fur him so. Dat was all, but it made ole miss mighty mad, an' she up an' tole him if he jealous o' her baby, he could leave her house. He never left dough; he staid dar an' we'd like a nigger. Sick or well he was gwine all de time. Dat how he come he ketch his death. Baby got up in de house wen de weather was bad, an' wen hit was good he gone to town to frolic wid de yuther young men. He come home drunk sometimes. Nemmine! He ole miss' baby."

"Hebimey he de onliest child lef. O'lest son done dead! Morgin done tuck de plantation! Bread an' meat sac'ed!"

"Dey was a fuss one day. Hit was 'twixt de baby—" "What was his name?" "Tommy. Dat was his name. He call for money, an' ole miss never had none. Den he cussed. Out de do he went. Ole miss beg him to come back. He was mad. He kep' on gwine. He went a fur way. Nobody ain't never year'd tell o' him 'om dat day to dis—"

"I would a buried ole miss at de ole fam'ly buryin' groun', but dey never kep' up de fence roun' hit, an' I couldn't bar de idee o' de cowa trampin' on her graves. Dat how come I buried her yer. All de time she was sick she moan and call her baby boy to her worst m'n, an' de las word she said was 'Tommy.'"

"Hi' young mos' ter, what de matter? Name o' de Lord! what make you drap day on ole miss' grave? Mus'ful Savior! Is de young man done fall dead. God look down in mus'ful! Dey'll seuse me o' murder. What shill I do? Wake, young mos' ter, wake! Speak, ef hit's des one word. Lemme raise you up. Dar! Dar! You ain't dead? No! No! Y'es eyes is open! You heart beats! Praise de lam! What make you do so? Who you? Mus' be I seed you befo'! Yes! Yes! Dem eyes, I knows 'em. Speak, young mos' ter! Is you—"

—who is you? In de crushing consciousness of deservin' every word that had been said against me, and of my unworthiness of the respect of even this humble old man, I answered:

"I am Tommy."

BLOOD AT IRONDALE.

The Officers Rout a Pack of Thieves.

WHO FIRE AND KILL THE MARSHAL.

But a Deputy Sheriff Uses His Winchester and Succeeds in Bringing Down the Whole Gang.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 6.—A bloody tragedy occurred late this afternoon at Irondale, six miles from this city. Four men were killed and further trouble may grow out of the affair.

Marshal England, of the town of Irondale, accompanied by Deputy Sheriff Fortenberry, attempted to arrest a crowd of negroes on a charge of larceny. The negroes resisted and opened fire on the officers, fatally wounding Marshal England at the first volley.

THREE NEGROES KILLED.

Deputy Sheriff Fortenberry succeeded in getting safely under cover, and opened fire on the negroes with a Winchester rifle, and shot three of them dead. The others then turned and fled in confusion. For some time a large amount of petty thieving has been going on at Irondale. Marshal England last night, located a crowd of worthless negroes about half a mile from the town, and succeeded in obtaining strong evidence that they had been doing the stealing. This afternoon he decided to arrest them. No trouble was apprehended, but the marshal asked Deputy Fortenberry to go along with him.

The negroes were found in a cabin and when ordered to surrender, half a dozen of them sprang up and opened fire upon the officers. At the first fire Marshal England was hit three places and fell before he could return the fire. Deputy Fortenberry took refuge behind a tree and as the negroes ran out of the house he shot three of them dead. The others took to the woods and escaped.

EXCITEMENT IN IRONDALE.

The shooting created great excitement in the town, and a posse was soon organized and started in pursuit of the negroes. The names of the negroes killed have not yet been learned.

Look After the Little Ones.

S. S. S. is the remedy for children because it is a simple vegetable compound, prepared from the roots gathered from the forests, and contains no mineral at all nor any poison of any kind. It cures by eliminating the impurities of the blood, thus assisting nature.

If there is or has been any consumption in your family, you should give your children S. S. S. It will gently stimulate the action of the lungs, and enable nature to properly develop the child. If there is scrofula, you should not fail to give S. S. S. It is the only remedy which has ever cured this disease. For boils, pimples, blotches, etc., on children S. S. S. is superior to all other medicines. It acts gently, it forces out the impurities and builds up the child from the first dose.

Sustained the Will.

Washington, April 7.—In the United States supreme court today an opinion was rendered, affirming the judgment of the United States circuit court for the district of South Carolina, in the case of Isabelle Lee, appellant, vs. Richard W. Simpson, Mrs. Calhoun, John C. Calhoun's wife, died in 1866, leaving a part of her property to a married daughter for life with power to bequeath it. Before her death she willed her interest in the estate to her husband, Thomas G. Clemson. The validity of this will was attacked on the ground that it did not amount to a bequest, but the court, in an opinion delivered by Justice Blatchford, sustains the will.

Oh, What a Cough.

Will you heed the warning? The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease, Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50 cents, to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your Cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a Million Bottles were sold the past year. It relieves Croup and Whooping Cough at once. Mothers do not be without it. For lame back, side of chest, use Shiloh's Pore Plaster.

RISKY WORK.

Climbing the Highest Chimney in the World—Pinkey Man.

NEW YORK, April 6.—How to get up the chimney at Harrison was a puzzle which agitated the Clark Thread Company from the time that two strokes of lightning marred its beauty and probably its safety on Friday last. The balloon experiment was not tried because of a fear that the sharp edges of the cast iron cap would cut a rope. On Tuesday John Phillips, of the slate roofing firm of W. Smith & Company called at the works, and contracted to climb the chimney for a stipulated sum if the company would supply ladders. He explained his plan and was permitted to make the trial.

The chimney is 335 feet high, and the bell-shaped top flares out five feet beyond the collar, but this feature did not daunt Phillips, who began work at noon on Wednesday with a thirty-five foot fire truck ladder, whose spikes were sunk in a heavy plank. A second ladder, twenty-five feet in length, was lashed to this, and both were firmly anchored to the chimney, with hooked spikes seven-eighths inch steel and driven into the Portland cement between the bricks. There was a lot of light and new ladders at hand, and before night Phillips had fifty feet of them in place.

Each ladder lapped on the one above for five feet. At its base a cross cleat of wood was lashed, and between it and the face of the chimney a s'out piece of plank was placed on two spikes driven into the brick work. These shelves kept the ladders a foot from the chimney, and made stages upon which Phillips could stand. He carried up a tackle block and rope, by which each successive ladder was hauled up by his helpers on the ground.

Phillips thought he could put all of the ladders firmly in place, and reach the top of the chimney in two days, but in this estimate he did not reckon on the hardness of the cement in which sixty feet of the bricks are laid, and the mortar in which the remainder of them are bedded. Both mortar and cement were harder than any he had ever encountered, and his labors in driving the spikes were prodigious. When he quit work last night the top round of the upper ladder was two hundred feet above the ground. He has climbed over chimneys in this manner, but never went above 200 feet. How he proposes to master the difficulty when he reaches the eighteen-inch collar and the five foot outward slope at the bell he does not tell, and it is hard to understand how he will overcome the trouble which he will encounter when he reaches the slope of cast iron forming the huge cap. His bargain is to go up and rig a rope and tackle by which the workmen can ascend and examine the shattered brick work. His ladders are arranged on the side of the chimney which was untouched by lightning, and he is in no danger from falling bricks. On the other side, however, a large mass of bricks forming the skin of the chimney bulge out and hang in a threatening manner. When a strong wind blows the loosened bricks dribble down like drops of water from a leaky eave trough. It is believed that the chimney is badly cracked through on the north side, and work will not be resumed in the mill until the damaged side of the big shaft has been inspected. The chimney is certainly good enough to carry off smoke and heat, but it is doubted that it will be safe to submit it to the ground vibration caused by the engines and machinery in the huge mills surrounding it.

Phillips is an athletic man of 30 years and is used to working on heights. Aside from driving the heavy spikes and adjusting the ladders, the work of climbing is alone enough to worry out the strength of an ordinary man, but Phillips climbs up and down constantly, and several times a day comes all the way to the ground. The perilous point in his task is when he secures the lower end of a ladder and then climbs it to affix the spikes half way up its length. One spike is driven under a round half way up the ladder, and just above it another is driven at the side of the ladder, and both are firmly lashed with rope.

REFUGEES DROWNED.

While Attempting to Escape on a Raft—Stock in Danger.

VICKSBURG, Miss., April 6.—Nineteen negroes, the survivors of a large party of refugees which attempted to escape from the overflow down the Bayou Falaya, on a raft have arrived here on the steamer Hill City. They report that twelve women and children were drowned when the current lashed their crazy vessel against a tree and they escaped with extreme difficulty. This is the most tragic event of the flood.

The situation is growing daily more serious in Steel Bayou county. Earl Miller, a prominent planter and brother of Attorney General Miller, arrived from there today by the steamer Evergreen with his family and stock. The Miller plantation, though very high, has gone under. The Evergreen reports that the water along the bayou is still rising. Cattle and hogs are offered for sale by the people at a song. Much more stock must yet be brought out or allowed to drown.

The steamer leaves Tuesday for Sunflower and that the planters will desire to remove their stock is most certain.

The steamer Oseola arrived this evening from the bends. Her officers report that the overflow is beginning to empty into the Mississippi through Eagle Lake, and predict a great increase in the pressure all along the Louisiana front, from that point southward, for the next two weeks.

The Oseola begins the inspection of levees from Delta, La., northward tomorrow and will be joined by President Maxwell and probably Assistant Engineer Thompson. There is most unmistakable distress along Steel Bayou and it would be cruelly to deny it. The Evergreen returns there tomorrow and the Benam with Capt. W. D. Pugh and M. W. Smith on board will follow Tuesday or Wednesday. They will bring out all the people suffering or in danger. Barges cannot be taken there and only the smallest boats are suitable for relief work. Capt. Pugh will relieve the distressed, whether they have money or not to pay their fare.

Telegrams from Sharkey, on the Tallahatchie River, report a decline of eighteen inches. Capt. John B. Mattinly, who has just returned from the Austin break, says it cannot affect the Yazoo and Tallahatchie counties, as its current is too feeble. Engineer Stubbs, of the Vicksburg, Shreveport & Pacific Railroad, reports the prospects more cheering, and only twenty points rise in twenty-four hours at the worst places on the line. He is confident that the road will hold its own.

How to Grow Beautiful.

She knew it was necessary to become beautiful in order to be considered attractive, and so she made the art of beautifying a study. She felt it wiser to be plump and hearty than to be thin and delicate. To this end she knew good health was essential. She had suffered from backaches, sideaches and bearing down pains, and was restless until she found the medicine she needed. It improved her appetite and digestion. Her habits became regular. Her flesh increased and became more firm and solid. Her complexion became clear and beautiful and free from pimples. Her lips grew red and her cheeks grew rosy. She did not know an ache or pain. Exercise gave her pleasure and she became the life of her companions. She could ride a tricycle for many miles and never seemed to grow weary. Her laughter was catching and all the young men loved her. She is now a happy wife and mother. Who was she? What was her name? Well no matter, let us know the medicine she used. With pleasure, with pleasure, sweet girls. She used Dr. John Bull's Sarsaparilla. If any there be among you who are sickly, go quickly and do likewise.—Mansfield Independent.

A Terrible Drop Into a Forty-Foot Well.

GREENVILLE, S. C., April 4.—A very singular accident occurred at Westminster, S. C. a day or two ago. A man named Warren Wilson was sitting astride his horse at the depot, when a train rolled up, at which the horse became so frightened that he backed upon the rotten plank covering of an old well, which broke and let both horse and rider through. An old rail was sticking in the muddy bottom, on which the horse was impaled. His struggles were fearful, and his rider, who, strange to say, did not get unseated, had a narrow escape from being crushed to death. As it was, he was severely hurt before being rescued. The well was forty feet deep, and the horse died before he could be pulled out.

Death of Rev. J. M. McLean.

Rev. J. M. McLean died at his home in Oxford at 5 o'clock yesterday morning after a lengthy illness, and was buried in Oxford cemetery yesterday afternoon. The deceased had for many years served the Oxford Presbyterian church as pastor. He was an intellectual, refined gentleman, and one of the most consistent Christians in this community. He reared two sons to manhood, both of whom are ministers of the same denomination. He also has a daughter who is the wife of a minister in Southern Georgia.

He leaves a large circle of relatives and friends.—Anniston Hot Blast.

A Woman's Awful Death.

BRIDGETON, N. J., April 6.—Miss Carrie Hutchinson of Woodruff's Station, near Bridgeton, died yesterday of hydrophobia. Last fall she was bitten by her father's coach dog. Two weeks ago she took an overdose of medicine through mistake, and it is thought that developed the poison in her system. She immediately began to snap and bite as a dog until death relieved her awful agonies. The dog is still living and has never shown any sign of the rabies.

Norristown Herald: "Look at our fashionable young women," said a dross reform lecturer; "they toil not neither do they spin, and yet Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these." Well, we should hope not, Solomon would have looked pretty, going about in tight-fitting redingote made of checker cloth, trimmed with bands of velvet, and a hat partly on his head with the brim crushed.

The Republican.

L. W. GRANT, Publisher.

APRIL 12, 1890.

Macon county is talking about sending Gen. J. C. Bryan to the State Senate.

Don't forget that the County Democratic Convention meets in the court house at Jacksonville next Tuesday, the 15th inst., at 11 o'clock, a. m.

Mr. S. D. G. Brothers, chairman of the Beat Executive Committee of this Beat requests us to remind voters that to-day (Saturday) is the day fixed by the County Executive Committee for the best meeting. Democratic voters are requested to meet in the Court house at the hour named.

Messrs. J. A. Spearman and W. T. Kendrick, two progressive young teachers from Shelby county, have entered the Normal School for the benefit of the professional training, and express themselves as much pleased with the work of the institution.

Mr. Willis Lanford, 86 years old, walked from Alexandria, nine miles distant, to Jacksonville Tuesday and walked back Wednesday. He had not been here for years and was much struck by the removal of the court house from the Public Square. He is one of the oldest citizens of the county. The old man was cordially greeted by everybody and enjoyed his visit finely.

The sales of real estate have been larger here this week than during any previous week and there has been a steady increase in values. Buyers have been here from Massachusetts and other Eastern States, Illinois and other Western States, while Anniston, Fort Payne, Middleboro, Chattanooga, Atlanta and other live towns and cities of the South have furnished their quota.

State Senator Branch, Ex-Representative Gibson and several county officers of Lawrence county, who of late years have trained with the Republican party, have held a convention and formally declared their intention of returning to the Democratic fold. They say they are forced to this by the hostile attitude of the Republican party toward the South and the necessity which is upon every white man to maintain white supremacy.

The Normal school has received from the Smithsonian Institute, Washington, a handsome set of minerals collected from all parts of the country, some specimens having come from Norway. The school expects this set to be added to by the State Geological survey and hopes that any individuals in this section who have duplicates to spare will contribute them to the formation of a handsome and useful cabinet. All specimens sent in will be carefully labelled giving full credit to the donor.

At the court house on Wednesday there was a meeting of the stockholders of the Jacksonville Mining & Manufacturing Co. The attendance of stockholders was large, and there was a general spirit of cheerfulness which marked every face. The report of the President was highly satisfactory and showed the affairs of the company to be in most excellent condition. The old Board of Directors were unanimously re-elected. At the meeting of Directors which followed, Gen. J. W. Burke was re-elected President, S. D. G. Brothers, Vice-President and P. D. Ross Secretary and Treasurer. Maj. J. G. West retains his position as General Manager.

Judge Johnston, Dr. LeGrand, Mr. Huger, Mr. John Pelham and Mr. Bonj. Micou, of Anniston, and Mr. Sam'l. Brothers, of Jacksonville, have all been mentioned in the newspapers for Representative since we last published the list of names as proposed. Dr. Huger, in a card to the Anniston News, declines to run, and recommends Mr. John Pelham, who, he says, has consented to serve in that capacity, if the nomination is tendered him.

The Republican reiterates the fact that it has no special interest in the race further than to help secure a broad gauge man for Representative—one who understands the needs of the county and who has the ability to advocate measures for its benefit.

To give our readers some idea of the appreciation of values here we will relate an incident in lot buying that occurred with the editor of this paper and Mr. C. D. Martin. About three weeks ago these gentlemen priced a lot in the hands of an agent and it was offered them at $200. They postponed the matter until next day and were asked $250. They hesitated two days and again applied and found it priced at $400. They bought at this figure and sold for $600. That purchaser sold for $1,200. The purchaser at $1,200 sold for $1,750. It has been offered at a higher price.

Democratic Victories In Ohio, Indiana, Michigan and Even Kansas.

Cincinnati, April 7.—The vote at the municipal election today for judge of the superior court, clerk of the police court, director of city infirmaries, magistrates and members of the boards of councilmen and education was very light. The republicans at midnight seem to have a majority of one in the board of education, and two in the board of councilmen, both of which were heretofore overwhelmingly republican. The democrats elected all the other officers by about 2000 majority, except clerk of the police court, whom the republicans elected by 2000 majority.

Show Democratic Victories.

Detroit, Mich., April 7.—Charter elections were held very generally throughout the state today. In many instances the issues were purely of a local nature, but where politics entered into the fight, the returns so far as received show democratic victories. Among the larger places—Kalamazoo, Ypsilanti, Marshall, Holland, Monroe and Hillsdale went republican, while Lansing, Grand Rapids, Jackson, West Bay City and Muskegon have gone almost solidly democratic. In the villages and townships the parties are about equally divided, with slight democratic majorities in the preponderance.

The Entire Municipal Ticket.

Cleveland, O., April 7.—The democratic ticket today at the city election, elected their entire municipal ticket, comprising committee-men of the police, fire, cemetery and waterworks board and justice of the peace by pluralities ranging from 280 to 107. The republicans on the other hand elected 22 of the 40 councilmen. The board of education is a tie, being composed of 10 republicans and 10 democrats. The entire city government, however, is in the hands of the republicans except auditors' and engineers' departments. Nine thousand and nine hundred and ninety republicans and republicans failed to vote.

No Reason to Complain.

Toledo, O., April 7.—The municipal election today gives the city a democratic common council and a republican board of aldermen, with a republican majority of one on joint ballot. Henry Cherry, republican candidate for police commissioner, was swamped, as was J. C. Gribben for street commissioner. The vote was very light.

The Entire Ticket Safe.

Columbus, O., April 7.—The city election passed off quietly, with not more than 65 per cent of the vote polled. The democrats elect their entire ticket by majorities ranging from 1000 to 1200, and make substantial gains in the council. The city on poll is from 200 to 400 republican.

Overwhelming Majority.

Fort Wayne, Ind., April 7.—A light vote was polled in today's township elections. The entire democratic ticket was elected by an overwhelming majority. Reports from the country indicate that eighteen out of twenty trustees were elected by the democrats.

Carried Every Ward.

Evansville, Ind., April 7.—In the municipal election here the democrats carried every ward in the city for councilmen and city officials. Township election returns indicate the election of the entire democratic ticket.

A COMBINATION FAMILY HORSE.

One of Capt. Johnston's Characteristic Answers to a Query.

Here is one of the campaign stories now going the rounds. A gentleman from the country was in Birmingham the other day. He was uncertain among the conflicting claims of the candidates for governor, whom he would support.

He had heard that they were running on some particular platform, and he called on Capt. Joe Johnston to get at his special title to eminence and fame. The following conversation is said to have ensued:

"What are you running on, captain?"

"On my unbroken record as a democrat. I swallowed everything that the party ever offered and never gagged."

"That isn't what I mean. I mean two of them are running as farmers, one as a military man, and so on. What is yours?"

"Well," answered the captain, "I was raised on a farm, and when a small boy did some involuntary plowing and hoeing, but I don't consider myself a first class farmer."

"I went to the army as a private when a lad, fought the four years through and got to be a captain, but I don't consider myself a great warrior."

"After the war I read law and practiced seventeen years. I made some money, and took care of my clients the best I could, but I don't consider myself a great lawyer."

"Then I went into banking and have been fairly successful, but I don't consider myself the greatest financier in the State."

"I would call myself a good combination farmer, warrior, lawyer, banker and financier, and one that goes straight."

ASSASSINATION.

Prominent Man Called to the Door and Shot.

It is Thought That a Negro Committed the Deed That Was Angered by a Settlement.

Birmingham, April 8.—Two and a half miles south of Henryville, and about fifteen miles east of Birmingham, in this county, a coldblooded murder occurred last night.

David Hunnicutt, a prominent contractor, was shot down and instantly killed in his own house by

AN UNKNOWN ASSASSIN.

A. Isbell, who resides near the Hunnicutt residence, reached the city this morning at 10:30 o'clock. He came after officers and dogs to pursue and if possible capture the murderer. A news reporter saw Mr. Isbell and from him learned the story of the crime.

It seems that Mr. Hunnicutt has a contract for furnishing the railroads and mines with cordwood. He has also been doing some work on the Georgia Pacific branch near Henryville of late. He had a large number of negroes in his employ. Last Saturday Hunnicutt had a row with a negro whose name could not be learned, about wages. It is said the negro made threats to kill Hunnicutt. It is believed he is the murderer. A party of neighbors are searching the country for him, and if he is caught it is safe to say he will be summarily dealt with.

Last night just as Mr. Hunnicutt had finished supper he walked out of the dining room of his house into an adjoining room, and then started towards the front door. The next instant Mrs. Hunnicutt, who was in the kitchen, heard a shot ring out on the night air, and at the same time a shriek of

"OH! LORD! I AM KILLED!" and then all was still. She ran into the front room of the house, in the direction from which the sound came and an awful sight met her gaze. Lying on the floor within two feet of the open door, lay the prostrate form of her dying husband, bathed in a pool of his own blood.

A stream of blood was spurting from a wound in his neck. This told the tale. He had been murdered. The next instant Hunnicutt was dead. He expired with his head in his wife's lap, but never regained consciousness, dying almost within half minute after he was shot. The ball, evidently from a Winchester rifle, had struck him in the neck and ranged upward, severing the large artery as it went. There was no one at the house at the time the murder occurred except his wife and a five year old child. The horror stricken woman ran to the house of Mr. Isbell who lived near by, and told him of the terrible happening. In a short time the alarm was given and a posse was scouring the woods for the murderer.

Mrs. Hunnicutt said that the sound of the shot which killed her husband was the first warning she had of the bloody crime. No suspicious characters had been lurking around the premises, as far as was known. The murderer was evidently concealed behind a bush in the yard, waiting for Hunnicutt to appear. When he appeared the fatal shot was fired. Tracks were seen around the house, but other than this no clues were obtained.

DEATH OF MR. W. H. JEFFERS.

A Valuable Citizen Has Breathed His Last.

Mr. William Henry Jeffers died at his home on Mulberry street, last night at 7:30 o'clock. He was stricken with paralysis while at work in his office a couple of weeks since and never rallied.

He was born in Hamburg, S. C., on the 8th of September, 1837, and died on the 8th of April, 1890. During the Confederate war Mr. Jeffers, assisted by Capt. Trenholm, organized the Rutledge Mounted Riflemen and joined Hampton's Legion. He surrendered at the head of the squadron at Appomattox, and witnessed the greeting of Generals Grant and Lee. He was always noted for his coolness and bravery. He was one of South Carolina's most gallant soldiers and leaders during the war. He was a Southern gentleman of the old school and since 1867 a consistent christian and member of the Baptist church. He came to Anniston in 1874 and at first did business for the Woodstock Iron Company. He was elected clerk and treasurer of the city in 1883 and was holding that responsible position at the time of his death.

He married a daughter of Dr. Jenkins, in Newberry, S. C., in 1868, and was the father of ten children, six of them living—Anniston Hot Blast.

Another Murder Mystery.

Birmingham, Ala., April 6.—Bloom, Bibb county, yesterday furnished another sensational murder mystery. The dead body of a Frenchman named Bohan, was found near the town this morning with his head split open by a blow from a sharp instrument. The dead man had been in the vicinity only a short time, and was known to have had considerable money. The body had been robbed of valuables. There is no clue to the identity of the assassins.

ANOTHER TORNADO.

A Terrible Tornado With Loss of Life.

Pittsburg, Pa., April 3.—A special from Altoona, Ohio, today says two clouds came together Tuesday evening about two miles northwest of Sharon, Medina county, and they began to revolve in tornado fashion and bear down upon the villages.

The tornado's progress was marked by roaring and groaning sounds. In ten minutes it had levelled everything in its track, over six miles of farm land, for a width of thirty rods, demolished dozens of buildings, killed one man, fatally injured a man and a woman and seriously injured several others. The forests in which were trees two feet in diameter, were cut down as if they had been corn stalks. The storm travelled along into Stark county, leaving debris scattered over a stretch of thirty miles. Losses, $10,000.

AT ROANOKE, VA.

The Greatest Tornado for Many Years Does Terrible Work.

ROANOKE, Va., April 9.—The greatest tornado for many years passed over this city this evening. The east house at the Crozier iron furnace was blown down and three laborers were killed and one was mortally wounded. The loss to the furnace company is $5,000. Nearly one hundred dwellings in the course of erection were demolished. The Salem furnace was blown down; a heavy loss being reported, and buildings in that vicinity were reduced to ruins. Loss $100,000.

AT HIGHLAND PARK, ILL.

Winds Blow Down All Big Buildings Including a Church.

HIGHLAND PARK, ILL., April 8.—A fierce storm swept over this place at 11 o'clock last night, doing heavy damage to property, and although only one person was injured a number had narrow escapes. The wind came from the northwest, and the path of destruction was about a half mile wide.

The Catholic Church, a large structure, gave way before the blast and fell into a shapeless mass.

Great damage was done to other buildings in the town and there was many narrow escapes from death. Great damage was also done at Bloomington, Ill.

Tribute of Respect.

Whereas, It has pleased an all-wise Providence to remove from us our highly respected and brother junior Warden, Charles N. Martin, and while we are loth to give him up, yet we believe our loss is his eternal gain.

Resolved, That in his death the Lodge sustains a missing link, the church a consistent member, the community a kind and affable neighbor, his family a kind and affectionate husband and parent; and further resolved that we wear the usual badge of mourning for thirty days, and that we have a copy of these resolutions spread upon a page of our Lodge record and the same be published in the Jacksonville Republican one time, and that the family of the deceased be furnished with one copy of these resolutions.

ELOPED WITH A NEGRO.

An Ohio Young Lady Runs Off With a Waiter—Her Family Well-Nigh Crazy.

Columbus, O., April 9.—Miss Campbell, the only daughter of Edward O. H. Campbell, of the Continental Hotel, left home last week and was supposed to have gone to Berea to visit friends. A day after her departure one of the hotel waiters, a colored man was also missing and it is known that they both went to Cleveland and were married. Miss Campbell was a leader of the society of Crestline and she possessed an excellent disposition and was a particular favorite. Her parents are well-nigh crazed with grief. Of the negro little is known, as he had been in the employ of the hotel people only about eight or nine months. It is stated that Campbell has received a letter from his daughter stating that they were married and would reside in Cleveland.

FIRE IN DECATUR.

The United States Rolling Stock Works Suffer.

Decatur, Ala., April 9.—Fire was discovered in the forging department of the United States Rolling Stock Works here at 8 o'clock to night. The flames raged furiously until the machine shop, the blacksmith shop, the bolting room and the 500 horse power engine room, with all the machinery in them were destroyed. The loss is fully $200,000. At least 400 laborers are thrown out of employment and the main works will necessarily suspend operation until the lost building can be erected. About fifty box cars, just completed, were burned. The building as a whole was the largest in the South and employed, including the clerical force, more than 500 men. If any insurance on the part destroyed it could not be ascertained tonight. The fire was accidental.

A PROSPECTIVE LYNCHING.

A Negro in Jail for Assaulting a White Woman.

SCOTTSBORO, April 7.—Matt Wing, colored, was arrested to-day and jailed for ravishing Mrs. Shipton, on Mud Creek, a few miles from this place. The people are excited and there are fears of a lynching. The facts are almost impossible to get.

The Coalburg Mine Disaster.

Birmingham, April 7.—Nine victims of the Coalburg mines disaster of last week have died and three others are in a hopeless condition. Gov. Seng has ordered an official investigation of the explosion, and the Board of Penitentiary Inspectors are now holding it. No material facts have been brought out today, and it appears that accident was caused solely by the carelessness of a young convict who went into the magazine with his lamp burning.

Sheriff's Sale.

"Established 30 Years.

Under and by virtue of three Ven Exces issued from the Circuit Court of Talladega County, Alabama, on the 5th day of March, 1890, one in favor of Poyntis & Watson for ninety-two and 1/2 dollars and cost, two in favor of Isadore Trayer and Simeon J. Cammon for seventy-four and 55-100 dollars and cost and for seventy-five and 85-100 dollars and cost, and against J. S. Martin. Also five executions in my hands issued from the aforesaid court, one in favor of Briscoe & Beggs on February 6th, 1890, for one hundred and ninety-seven and 34-100 dollars and cost, one in favor of Taylor & Williams on March 6th, 1890, for two hundred and forty dollars and cost, one in favor of Webb & Tillman on February 6th, 1890, for one hundred and thirty and 17-100 dollars and cost, one in favor of First National Bank of Birmingham, for one hundred and forty-four and 60-100 dollars and cost, one in favor of Edison Electric Illuminating Co., on March 20th, 1890, for one hundred eighty-nine and 60-100 dollars and cost, all against J. S. Martin.

Whisky Case Argued in the Supreme Court.

The case of Percy Olmstead vs. E. F. Crook, which was an application for mandamus to compel Judge Crook to issue whisky license was argued in the Supreme Court at Montgomery Monday. The arguments for the whisky men were made by R. B. Kelly and Gordon Macdonald, and for the prohibitionists by J. J. Willett and W. F. Johnston. All the points are raised in this case and it is thought the decision of it will settle the question in Calhoun for the present. A decision is expected next week.—Anniston Hot Blast.

Catarrah.

Catarrah is a most disgusting ailment and yet many unnecessarily suffer with the disease. They will try local applications, which do no good whatever, but fail to try such constitutional treatment as is afforded by a use of B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm), which removes the mucous poison in the blood and thus eradicates the cause of the disease.

N. C. Edwards, Lampasas Springs, Tex., writes: "I was greatly annoyed with catarrah which impaired my general health. The discharge from my nose was very offensive, and I used various advertised remedies without benefit until finally the use of B. B. B. entirely cured me. I am proud to recommend a blood remedy with such powerful curative virtue."

B. C. Kinnard & Son, Towaliga, Ga., writes: "We induced a neighbor to try B. B. B. for catarrah, which he thought incurable as it had resisted all treatment. It delighted him and continuing its use he was cured sound and well."

Many Lives, Histories, or Biographies of the late Jefferson Davis, purporting to be written by Mrs. Jefferson Davis, are being advertised throughout the country. The only genuine work of the kind written by Mrs. Jefferson Davis is that to be published by Belford Company, 18-22 East 18th Street, New York, entitled "Jefferson Davis, Ex-President of the Confederate States: A Memoir, by His Wife." All other works claiming the authorship of Mrs. Jefferson Davis must necessarily be injurious to her personally and pecuniarily. The book is sold by subscription, and territory is being rapidly assigned. The work promises to be one of the most popular ever published, and those desiring to canvass for it should apply at once to the publishers, who will furnish circulars and information.

The Bar Association to Meet in Anniston.

Anniston, April 7.—Col. Jno. M. McKleroy was notified this morning by a letter from Col. D. S. Troy, president of the State Bar Association, that the executive committee had decided to hold the next annual meeting of the association in this city. The convention will be held on August 6 and 7.

The Republicans of the election committee are capable of anything. In the contested election case of McDuffie against Turpin, from Alabama, the sitting member has a majority on the face of the returns of 13,000, but the Republicans of the committee decided in favor of the Republican contestant. There is nothing a Republican hates so much as a majority.

Memphis Democrat: It is said that one of our prettiest and most popular society girls practices chewing gum before the mirror. She says her desire in life is to do everything in the most becoming way, so she watches herself to see that no distortions of the face take place. If a mirror could be suddenly held up before some of the mistificators they would be shocked at the spectacle they present. It would be an act of mercy to let them "see themselves as others see them." When the young lady above mentioned has reduced the practice to a science she ought to open a class and give lessons in "How to Chew Gum."

Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint.

Is it not worth the small price of 75 cents to free yourself of every symptom of these distressing complaints, if you think so call at our store and get a bottle of Shiloh's Vitalizer. Every bottle has a printed guarantee on it, use accordingly, and if it does you no good it will cost you nothing.

J. T. DOSTER & CO.

Union Springs has a musical prodigy, in the person of a nine-year-old colored boy, who, in time, may become as famous as Blind Tom. He has never had any instruction in music, and doesn't know one note from another, yet he performs well on the organ, piano, and other musical instruments. His name is Benton Preer. His parents are uneducated, though hard working, upright colored people.

The Negroes are Going. RALPHIGH, N. C., April 7.—It is learned today that in the past fifteen months 71,000 negroes have left North Carolina. It is stated that this estimate is made on reliable data, and upon careful investigation.

The Preacher—"Well, Sam, how have you been getting along since your conversion?" Sam—"Oh, just rate, sah, just rate. Me and de whole family has quit lyin', swearin' and stealin', in a great measure."

An Old Iron Worker.

Uncle John Howard, the oldest iron worker in Calhoun county died at his home near Morrisville yesterday morning. He forged or beat iron with a sledge about fifty years ago at the old Crow furnace near his home. He was a worker and an iron expert from his boyhood to the close of the war.—Anniston Hot Blast.

Killed for a Dog.

Chattanooga, April 7.—News was brought to this city today of a brutal murder near Pine Log, in north Georgia. Bynum Collins, Mike and Alfred Goode got into a quarrel about a dog that belonged to Goode. In the fight which followed Collins was beaten to death with clubs. His skull was mashed in and his body terribly mangled. The Goode boys hastily left the county and have not yet been found.

Answer This Question.

Why do so many people we see around us seem to prefer to suffer and be made miserable by Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness, Loss of Appetite, Coming Up of the Food, Yellow Skin, when for 75 cents we will sell them Shiloh's System Vitalizer, guaranteed to cure them?

J. T. DOSTER & CO.

A kindly faced man at a Kansas City street crossing tapped a passing gentleman and asked him if he had lost a $20 gold piece. The gentleman looked at the coin and said that he had. The old man drew out a note book and took the name and address of the looser and turned away. "Well," said the other, "do you want it all as a reward?" "Oh, I did not find one," said the benevolent old man, "but it struck me in a large city like this there must be a great deal of money lost, and upon inquiry I find that you are the thirty-first man who has lost a $20 gold piece this morning."

Completely Wiped Out.

BURLINGTON, Iowa, April 7.—It is reported that Prohabetstown, Illinois, has been swept away by a cyclone. There are no particulars except that twenty freight cars were blown to atoms, and that the whole town has been wiped from the face of the earth, and that many people have been killed. The wires are all down and at this hour it seems probable that no additional information will be secured tonight.

A Kentucky Village Destroyed.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 7.—It is just learned here that Harper's Ferry, Henry county, was almost completely destroyed by the tornado. The village, composed of less than two dozen houses, is a considerable distance from any railroad.

A Mysterious Well.

MURPHY, N. C., April 7.—On the farm of Mrs. S. E. Jones there was a well formed by nature on land that has been in cultivation for fifty years or more. It was cultivated in cotton last year, since which time this well or hole, two feet in diameter and fourteen feet deep, has formed. Water rose ten feet in it. It is at least fifty feet above the bed of the nearest stream.

They Whipped the Tyrant.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 4.—The peasants at Riazan, incensed at the continued flogging and outrages perpetrated by District Chief Mordvinoff, retaliated by thrashing Mordvinoff severely and stoning the police. The czar was deeply pained on hearing the news.

Mrs. Jane Clause, 105 years of age, lives near Crews, in Lamar county. She counts her age at only a little over 100 years, but the record of her birth, which is now in the possession of a well-known gentleman of Marion county, shows her to have been 105 last autumn.

There is a great deal of excitement in Pollard's Bend, two miles across Coosa river from Centre, about gold. A company of prospectors have been testing for several weeks and now they have ordered a hundred thousand feet of lumber to establish mining quarters and get ready to give the gold a chance.

Register's Sale.

Under and by virtue of a decree of the Chancery Court for the 9th District of the Northeastern Chancery Division of Alabama composed of the county of Calhoun, at the October Term 1888, in the cause of Annie C. Alexander vs. John H. Alexander et al. I will as Register of said court sell to the highest bidder on Monday the 21st day of April 1890 before the court house door of Calhoun county, Ala., the following described real estate to-wit: Lots 18, 19 and 20, and so much of lot No. 17, as lies south of the gully running through said lot including the dwelling house and out houses, and known as the S. P. Hudson home place, also lot No. 21, said to contain twenty-three acres, (less three and one half acres sold off for cemetery), and also one half of lot lying in front of dwelling house, all of said lots are in the old plan of Jacksonville, county of Calhoun, State of Alabama.

Terms of sale, one-third cash, one-third credit twelve months and one-third credit two years, notes bearing interest from date with two good securities. The above is the most valuable property in the town of Jacksonville.

READ. THINK IT OVER.

AND BE

ONE OF THE WISE.

In supervising the construction of our Stock for the present season we

"SPREAD OURSELVES"

Not alone in the construction of the finest kinds of was possible to produce but also in the quantity and variety of styles necessary to meet the demands of our increasing business. This well we did for increase in the volume of our trade is in the light of revelation to us. We never thought it was possible to do such a business in our present space. We are, in fact and in truth, doing the cream of the Clothing and Furnishing Business of Anniston.

The point we wish to make is this: That the people's eyes have been opened to one or two important facts that, until lately, seemed to have escaped their notice. One that our prices are always uniformly reasonable. We neither mark our goods A WAY UP first of the season nor

CUT PRICES

In two when the season's over. Another is that others do those things, and consequently cannot afford to meet our prices. Add to these the fact we produce and sell only clothing of style and sterling merit. The finest is not too good for us to handle or for our patrons to buy and wear. The clothes we handle are of the good, reliable, honest kind that do not require sensational advertising to bring their merits before the people. In beauty of design, conception and make our dress and semi-dress suits and dress overcoats find no peers in these parts. We are not here to decry the wears of others—we are not built—that way—but we take a pardonable pride in the beauties of our own. There is no tailor living that can produce better made,

BETTER FITTING

Or finer garments than those we show ready for use. Our unchanging low prices place them within the reach of the most economically inclined in point of fact our garments are far cheaper in the end than the cheap clothing so extensively advertised of late. There's a tone and style about OUR CLOTHES that stamp

THEM AT ONCE,

As being of Superior character to the ordinary run of ready made, yet they cost the consumer no more. Then why not buy the best?

JACKSONVILLE REPUBLICAN.

ESTABLISHED 1837.

JACKSONVILLE, CALHOUN COUNTY, ALA., SATURDAY, APRIL 26, 1890.

VOLUME 54.

SAM SLIM.

He Talks About the Late Convention.
OXFORD, ALA., April 17, '90.

I've heard it said that some folks would grumble if they were going to be hung, that may be so, but some fellow that fails to get the earth always manages to grumble at a county convention. Democrat in the Hot Blast raises his little voice at the nomination of W. P. Cooper, calls him a bolter. Well, may he be called a bolter, and if he did he did wrong, and I trust he is sorry for it and would do it any more. Well, if it was wrong for him to bolt would not be wrong for any of the balance of us democrats to bolt? In other words, if we were to bolt now, would we not act as shabby as he did when he bolted? If he ever bolted. It looks just that way to me, and I hope to discourage any disposition to bolt.

Well, in the last Echo, "Delegate" tuned his little grumbling organ, and sung out "clique." He complains that after the magnanimity displayed by the forty-two farmers who had only fifteen of other folks to down-permitting six of the other folks to go to the county convention as delegates, that one of the seven farmer delegates was put on a committee by the chairman of the county convention. Well, let's see how about them committees any how. In the committee to nominate permanent officers there were five other folks and thirteen farmers and they reported Col. G. C. Ellis unanimously for chairman. That thirteen farmer "clique" did splendidly. However, the committee on credentials was first, it had three other folks and four farmers. The committee to nominate delegates for the State Convention was composed of four other folks and five farmers, that committee also reported unanimously. The committee to nominate delegates to the Congressional Convention consisted of three other folks and six farmers.

The chairman who is neither a farmer or an alliance member put a majority of farmers and alliance men on every committee.

Well, the magnanimous chairman of Beat 13 meeting, who is a farmer, put two other folks and five of his own faith and order on the committee to nominate delegates to the county convention.

Talk about "magnanimity." There was no "clique" in that same two getting six out of the thirteen delegates who were of their way of thinking, it was good management. They got there Eli. I think Delegate ought to wipe his weeping eyes, hang his little harp on the willows, and go to work in earnest to console any other brothers that may be disposed to growl, and yell, "clique." And I would especially have him call his brother attention to the fact that the county convention was presided over by a lawyer. That he appointed in all thirty-six committees, and of that number twenty-four were farmers and only twelve other sort of folks, lawyers, doctors, merchants, insurance agents and SAM SLIM.

Statistical Correspondent.

ED REPUBLICAN:

About three weeks ago I was appointed Statistical Correspondent of the National Agricultural Department for Calhoun county, with the authority to select three assistants. The gentleman chosen are W. J. Smith of Piedmont, J. E. Downs of Choccolocco and H. L. White of Alexandria, each of whom has agreed to serve, and from their respective locations it will be an easy matter to give accurate reports of the condition of crops in every part of the county. Without knowing who were the former correspondents the above named gentlemen have been selected on account of their educational attainments and fine practical sense—being just such farmers as our county may well feel proud of.

Any aid from neighboring alliances in making up their reports will be duly appreciated.

Deafness Can't Be Cured

by local application, as they can not reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever, nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that we can not cure by taking Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

THE ALLEGED WRONGS OF THE NEGRO.

Albion W. Tourgee is an ex-carpetbagger who makes his living by cheap literature which panders to Northern prejudices against the South and to the sentimentality in regard to negroes.

The Southern people have long ago ceased to be annoyed by anything Tourgee says concerning them, and his effusions are rarely noticed except by those people for whose consumption they are intended, and who have a mania for that kind of babbling.

In a recent article in the Forum Mr. Tourgee alleges that the negro "is the most wronged race of which history gives any knowledge." As a personal utterance from him this would not be worthy of notice, but as an idea often expressed and believed by many, it is well enough to consider its truth.

If we consider what the negro was and what he is, it certainly does not appear that he has suffered greatly from this alleged wrong. He was a savage of the lowest type—the representative of a people who have come in contact with civilization from the earliest records of history, but who have been always benighted. He is, as we find him in this country, a self-sustaining citizen of a great Republic, a Christian, and well supplied with all the adjuncts and concomitants of an advanced civilization of which he is capable of making any use.

There must have been something done for him to have wrought this change in his condition which would not properly come under the head of a great wrong.

For the past twenty-five years philanthropists of the North have lavished their millions in establishing schools for his benefit, and the Southern states have all taxed themselves for his public education. The white people of the South, too, have given liberally in private subscriptions to build him churches and school houses, and aided him in the hundreds of ways that the property-holding class is always called on to aid the poorer people in their midst.

This has been done while the Indian has been driven from the heritage of his fathers and the Mongolian forbidden to set foot upon own shores. The negro suffered something more than a century of slavery—undoubtedly the mildest form of slavery the world ever knew. The white races knew slavery for a much longer period and of a severer type.

Montesquieu says that in the tenth century the great majority of the people of France were serfs—and as Judge Tourgee has a French name it is highly probable that his ancestors were in this debased condition for centuries.

Villainage survived in England until after the Elizabethan era. In all Germany the peasants were in bondage until towards the close of the eighteenth century, and in some parts of that country they remained in a condition of modified villainage until the present century, and the celebrated "imperial manifesto" of Alexander II of Russia liberating the serfs was issued in March, 1861.

The white races, therefore, have suffered many more years of slavery than the negroes of this country ever did.

The negroes of the South today are the happiest and best contented class of laboring people on the globe. Their labor is in demand and they have all the work they can do at fair wages. There is less complaint and less suffering among them than among the working class of any section or country.

That the negroes have suffered greater wrongs than any people known to history, is an assertion that can be found out by investigation.

They have been petted as no people ever were before and history furnishes no sort of parallel to the practical philanthropy that has been lavished upon them.—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Children Burned to Death.

Columbia, S. C., April 21.—Thomas Bradley and his wife living eight miles from this city, locked their two children, one a boy seven years old, and the other a girl somewhat younger, in the house, and went off to pray, or meeting in the vicinity. About 10 o'clock people living near saw a bright light, and smoke rising in the direction of the house, and soon there was a crowd on the scene, but the building was nearly consumed, and nothing could be done to extinguish the flames. When the fire had nearly spent its force, horrible discovery was made that the two little children had literally been roasted alive, and only their charred remains were found.

BAGGING PROBLEM SOLVED.

A New and Doubtless Successful Rival of Jute.

AUGUSTA, GA., April 21.—William E. Jackson, a well-known lawyer of this city, has solved the jute bagging problem that has agitated cotton circles for so long. Jackson has perfected mechanical appliances for making bagging from cotton stalks, and he has just returned from New York with a roll of the bagging. Expert cotton men say that it is in every respect equal to cotton bagging. He will utilize bare stalks from the field, and can afford to pay about $2 a ton laid down. An annual stalk yield will bale three years' cotton crop. The machinery comprises heavy weighted corrugated rollers with vats of running water, carding machines and bagging looms.

NWO MILLIONS ANNUALLY.

It is estimated that in making bagging from cotton stalks $200,000 annually will go into the pockets of the farmers for what is now cleared from the fields at an expense. Augusta will be the headquarters for the company's mills and the offices will extend from Virginia to Texas. Jackson had the roll of bagging which is exhibited woven by the jute bagging looms of J. C. Todd, at Patterson, N. J., and that expert source pronounces it equal to its jute rival. Cotton stalk bagging is less inflammable and is only a shade darker than jute. Cotton circles here are jubilant.

WORK OF THE FLOOD.

Sad Condition of Affairs in the Overflowed Louisiana Parishes.

Washington, April 21.—Secretary Proctor has transmitted to the House the report of the Quartermaster General Robinson in regard to the condition of affairs in the overflowed districts of St. James and Ascension Parishes, La. General Robinson says that in pursuance to orders he went to White Hall and Convent, St. James Parish. Convent is at the lower edge of the great Nita crevasse. White Hall above it, further back in the valley. Below, at Convent, except near the levees, everything is flooded for about ten miles down and far back, the same at intervals above the crevasses toward White Hall and for fifty miles, he says, the situation is deplorable. Hundreds of planters have lost their crops, while thousands of laborers will soon be thrown out of work. At Grand Point, where there are probably sixty to eighty families, the people are in a state of starvation. The levee break at Nita, numerous poor whites and colored people lost all but their lives. He recommends instant action tending to the relief of sufferers by the United States. There is liable to be in St. James, St. John and Ascension parishes a total of 5,000 persons destitute within a month.

Shiloh's Consumption Cure.

TALLADEGA FOR CROOK.

Forney for Congress and Webb and Wilson for the Legislature.

Talladega, April 12.—The Democracy of Talladega county have just closed a harmonious convention. Solid Crook and Forney delegations were chosen and W. T. Webb and J. H. Wilson were nominated for the legislature.

A Mississippi Farmer Most Foully Assassinated.

Meridian, Miss., April 21.—A most dastardly assassination was committed Saturday, about midnight, in this county, near Toomsburg. Henry F. Smith a farmer, was on his way home, when he was shot from a blind near the roadside and instantly killed. Eleven buckshot entered the back of his head. The blind had evidently been very recently constructed, and the footprints of the assassin plainly showed that he had lain in wait for his victim. A preliminary examination was held, but no evidence was disclosed as to who the assassin was.

Dr. Holmes Acquitted.

ROME, Ga., April 22.—Dr. Holmes tonight is receiving the congratulations of his friends. The jury returned after being out fifteen minutes with a verdict of "Not Guilty," thus ending one of the most notable cases ever in our courts. This case lasted eight days and will cost the county nearly $2,300. The judge concluded his charge at 4:20 this afternoon and the jury retired and returned the verdict after taking one ballot.

Of Course She Is.

As Peter sat at Heaven's gate,
A maiden sought permission,
And begged of him, if not too late,
To give her free admission.

"What claims hath you to enter here?"
He cried, with earnest mien;
"Please, sir," said she, "twixt hope and fear,
"I'm only just sixteen."

"Enough," the hoary guardian said,
And the gate wide open threw,
"That is the age, when every maid
Is girl and angel, too."

TALE OF A MANIAC.

BY L. M. W.

"They say that I am crazy; that my story is only the fabrication of a diseased imagination, but it is true—every word of it."

On one of the early morning trains which left for the north last week were three passengers, who occupied one of the sections in the boudoir car.

One of the three was a dwarf. Strangely misshapen, with long arms and a head twice too large for his body, he was horrible to look at.

His companions were both big men and though they were apparently able to crush the dwarf with ease, they yet seemed afraid of him and watched every motion he made with the closest attention.

As I was passing by the door of the section this strange figure called on me to stop and begged me to listen to his story and publish it and so save him from a terrible persecution.

No objection being made by the two keepers I took my seat in the compartment and heard the strange tale I ever listened to.

The words of the misshapen being can be reproduced, but not the horrible expressions of his face and the wild gestures of his long arms as he swung them about his head and reacted the scenes he was telling of.

"I was born," continued the dwarf, "in a northern village, and I was born as I am now, horrid to look at, a constant eyesore and a disgrace to my family."

"They tried to hide it from me, but I constantly saw how, when strangers came to the house, some excuse was made to keep me out of the way. Before I was twelve years old I could whip any one of my tall, straight brothers and it was a consolation to me to do it sometimes."

"When I was sixteen years old the war broke out and my brothers received commissions and went off to fight, but I was left behind because no company cared to have a human monstrosity in its ranks."

"For two years I remained at home and listened eagerly to every story of the war, until finally the desire to take part in the contest grew too strong for me to resist, and one night I collected all the money I could find about my father's house and stole away to do secretly what other men did openly and were proud of doing."

Suddenly a wild tempest of emotions, evidently produced by the recollections of what he had gone through, swept all likeness of humanity from the features of the narrator.

With a sudden bound he gained his feet. His figure bent and swayed in a frantic endeavor to burst the steel chain which held his wrists together. The guards waited their opportunity, and when the first paroxysm was past they seized him on each side, and drew him back to his seat. For a moment or two his body twitched convulsively, and then he sank back exhausted.

The storm passed as quickly as it had arisen. The sight of myself sitting opposite to him apparently recalled to him his present situation and with a look of unutterable hatred at his keepers he continued his story.

"There is no use now," said he, "recounting all the hardships I endured. I was ill-treated everywhere. When finally I reached the army I was misused by everybody. Beaten, called hard names, and forced to do the meanest sort of work. I never wavered in my determination, however, to reach the front and take part in the battles which were being fought."

"At last I reached Sherman's army. It was just before he began his march through Georgia, and recruits of all kinds, no matter where they came from or how deformed they might be, were eagerly received."

"I was enlisted into a Massachusetts infantry regiment, but the next morning when I turned out at reveille with my company, my appearance created a general laugh, and the captain ordered me to my quarters."

"I was strong in those days, stronger even than I am now, and they quickly found a use for me. I, who longed to fight and felt that I had the courage in me to do heroic acts, was assigned to hospital duty to take care of the sick and wounded."

"My only consolation was that I succeeded in being detailed on the field force and whenever there was a battle I was there to see it. The smell of the smoke and the roar of the cannon set my blood on fire. When I saw the rebels falling and our forces sweeping over the ground I was the first to follow them.

"I carried a long knife in my breast and sometimes when no one was looking I completed the work our soldiers had only half done, and in this way I destroyed many enemies to the country I loved and could not fight for."

"One morning our camp was surprised. Before we knew it the enemy was upon us, and all was wild confusion. That short half hour made up for all I had endured. It was a man to man struggle. Over and over I felt my long knife sink into an enemy, and I was happy."

"It lasted but a short time, however. We soon received reinforcements, and then the tide of battle turned, and the rebels were driven back step by step until our camp was regained."

"When it was all over I was forced to return to the hospital tent and there I found plenty of work. Soon every one of the camp beds were full, and the doctors were going about cutting away limbs and sewing up wounds. Side by side lay the men who a short time before had been fighting desperately, and the hardest part of my duty was that I was forced to treat all alike and care for the needs of the rebels as I did for those of our own men."

"I found among my patients one toward whom I conceived a sudden and overmastering hatred. He was a young officer, and I learned from his shoulder-straps and buttons that he was a captain in a Georgia regiment."

"I had seen him during the fight and watched several of our men go down before him. In one way it was a pleasure to find him now grievously wounded and comparatively at my mercy, but it was gall and wormwood to me to have to wait on him."

"The night of the battle this patient I hated called to me when everything was quiet and the other wounded men seemed asleep, and asked me to do a kindness for him."

"He told me that he lived not many miles away and that foreseeing that his home would lie immediately in the line of Sherman's march, he had taken his money and some valuables (sufficient he said to secure his aged mother and young sister from want), and had hidden them in the swamp back of his house."

"This treasure he asked me to seek for and return to those for whom it was intended."

"I listened to his story, and after receiving the exact description of the locality, I wound these fingers about his throat and choked the wretched life out of him."

"It was all done quietly. The man was very weak from loss of blood, and though he made a struggle, it was a very feeble one, and his body quickly stiffened out in death."

"Just as I realized that all was over and was unclasping my fingers from the dead man's throat, I heard my name called—not the name I had enlisted by, but my own name."

"Distinctly the words fell on my ear: 'Earnest, Earnest, are you a devil or a man?'"

"In a second I overcame my terror and turned about. Sitting up in the bed behind me was a terrible figure. It was a man swathed in bandages, and toward me he was pointing the stump of an arm which had recently been cut off. As I stood looking into that pale, agonized face, I recognized it, and I knew I was looking at my brother."

"As I approached him he turned from me with horror, and feebly called on the guard for help. Then I realized that he would give me away and I must act immediately."

"With one hand I stifled his cries, and with the other I quickly loosened the bandages about his wounded arm. The loss of blood told quickly, and when I saw that he was far enough gone, I rushed for the doctor and told him the bandages on a patient had slipped and he was bleeding to death."

"Everything was done to save him but it was too late. The next morning both the corpses were taken out of the tent for burial."

"I had always been a taciturn man, loving my own company better than that of other men; but after that night a change seemed to come over me. I longed to be with the soldiers, and I passed every leisure moment at the camp fires listening to the stories that were told, and yet I constantly heard in my ears my brother's voice crying: 'Earnest, Earnest, are you a man or a devil?'"

"The men began finally to look at me in a peculiar way, and when I approached they would shrink off and leave me by myself."

"Finally we reached the part of the country where the young officer told me he had buried his money. One night I obtained leave of absence from my hospital duties and determined to go in search of it."

"The swamp was easily found, but it was a wild, stormy night, and I hesitated before plunging into the dark recesses of the morass. Another opportunity might never occur, however, so gathering up my cov-age, I rushed heedless of where I went among the great trees. As I advanced, the storm increased. The wind became a hurricane, and the cold rain beat on me with frightful force. Still, I staggered on. Pieces of bark and limbs torn from the trees were hurled against me, and wounded me in many places, but I paid no attention to these hurts; my mind was bent on securing that treasure, and over all the tumult of the storm I heard my brother's voice calling: 'Earnest, Earnest, are you a man or a devil?'"

"At last I found the tree to which I had been directed. With my hands I began to tear away the earth, when lying on the ground before me I saw the figure of the man I had choked to death, just as I had seen it on that night."

"Two days later some soldiers found me wandering about. They said I was crazy when I told my story and they sent me north to a prison they call an asylum, and there they have kept me ever since, except when I have escaped and come back here to look for my treasure."

The misshapen creature's voice ceased, and for a moment I sat looking at him with horror. Then I turned to one of the guards and said: 'Is this story true?'"

"True! yes," he replied, "as far as we can tell it is true. It is a fact that he has twice escaped and come South to look for some treasure. We let him tell his story, for unless we do he gets violent, but it hurts us, because we, to our everlasting disgrace, are his brothers."

Then, with a feeling of overmastering terror, I fled from the compartment.

A Symptom is no Disease.

The suffering rheumatic would look incredulous if told his rheumatism was not a disease. Also the sufferer from catarrh, with his sore tender and exuding nostrils, if told catarrh was but a symptom. Yet such it is, in fact. The disease from which a man or woman suffers who has rheumatism or catarrh is blood poison. How did the poison get into the blood? From various causes; colds, exposure, indigestion, contagion, etc., may have been the cause. No matter, your blood is impure, and you will suffer just so long as this great stream of life is clogged with particles of impurity. Then why not strike at the root or cause of your rheumatism or catarrh by annihilating the enemies of good health that exist in your blood. This can be done by using Dr. Bull's Sarsaparilla. Its attractive virtue will quickly cleanse the blood of every impurity, and thousands have thus by its use been permanently cured of rheumatism and catarrh. No other remedy in the world acts so powerful and yet so harmlessly as a blood purifier. It conquers as if by magic all tendency to eruptive, irritating and painful ailments.

A Painful Accident.

Ross Green, a lad who clerks for H. D. Wood, on Tenth street, in attempting to board the dummy in Oxford yesterday before it had come to a stop, missed his aim and was thrown against the ground, breaking his fore-arm near the wrist. A physician was promptly summoned and upon examination it was found that the injury sustained was what the doctors call a "green stick" fracture, which is apt to make a curvature in the injured member unless it is attended with the greatest care. The young man walked down to his customary place of business yesterday morning and seemed to bear his pain heroically. His parents reside in Alexandria.—Anniston Hot Blast.

Lung Troubles, Rheumatism, etc.,

Frequently a person is supposed to have consumption when it is some other disease altogether that is reducing his flesh and making him look pale and thin.

J. W. Yates, Tullahoma, Tenn., writes: "It does me good to praise Botanic Blood Balm. It cured me of an abscess on the lungs and asthma that troubled me two years and that other remedies failed to cure."

So you see it is sometimes well to try constitutional treatment. No remedy is so good as B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm) for rebuilding wasted tissue, and giving health to every portion of the system reached by that great circulating stream of life, the human blood. Again, it is often supposed that colds and exposure are the only causes of sciatic rheumatism, etc., Such is not always the case. It is frequently caused by impurities in the blood.

Wm. Price, Luttsville, Mo., writes: "I was afflicted with sciatica and had lost the use of one arm and one leg for nine years. I went to Hot Springs and also tried different doctors, but found no cure until I tried Botanic Blood Balm. It made me sound and well. I am well known in this vicinity."

Observe, even when the renowned Hot Springs failed, B. B. B. brought relief. Remember, no matter what blood remedy you have tried or intend to try, B. B. B. is the only one that will give you complete satisfaction.

BAYOU SARA FLOODED.

MISSISSIPPI POURS IN ON THE TOWN AT MIDNIGHT.

Water Runs Over the Levee—Women and Children Saved on Rafts—Place in Ruins—Not a House Escapes—Rain Still Falling.

Bayou Sara, La., April 21.—After a most heroic struggle to save the city from the flood its people had to surrender to the great father of waters at 12:30 a. m. At that hour the guards reported that the levee had given way at the foot of fountain street. A general alarm was sounded and the people responded promptly to the call. This break was closed but on examination it was found that the rising river was running over the front levee. All that human effort could do had been done and at last the solemn cry went up along the line, "Give up, men, we are gone," and then the confusion of people can be better imagined than described.

Every imprudent boat and raft was brought into requisition. Lanterns could be seen everywhere and the cries of men, women and children attempting to save their effects was a sight that was sickening. Not a house in town has escaped. The beautiful Fischer building the home of Mayor Irvine, supposed to be the highest, is deluged. The town is in ruins, nothing but chaos and destruction meets the eye at every view.

Today it is raining hard, which makes the picture more gloomy. Water is also running over a large extent of Point Coupee from the Taylor levee, which has given way, and Fanny Poor crevasse will probably prove a very serious one. The large levees, from last accounts, are intact, but things look critical.

Pimples and Blisters.

Having for the past four or five years been troubled with pimples and blotches on my face and body, and finding no relief in any of the chemically prepared soaps and medicines prescribed for me by physicians I concluded to try your S. S. S. remedy, and have found great relief in the same, four bottles clearing my skin entirely. I cheerfully recommend your medicine to all who are in the position that I have been in. You can use this letter and my name as a testimonial to the merits of the S. S. S. remedy.

THE EDWARDS TRIAL.

The Jury Agree to Disagree and Are Discharged.

GADSDEN, April 20.—The jury in Edwards murder trial, which has been in progress in the circuit for several days, rendered a verdict at 1 o'clock this evening as follows: "We, the jury, agree to disagree."

Judge Tally refused to accept the verdict unless the juryman had exhausted all means by which they could come to a verdict, and as they assured him that they had, he dismissed them.

This murder occurred in May, 1886. Polk Miller, the deceased, met John Edwards, the defendant, on the road, and a dispute arose over an old debt Edwards owed Miller for guano, and the outcome was, Miller was cut in the neck by Edwards, producing death.

There were no eye witnesses, and Edwards said he did it in self-defense. Both are of good families. The jury stood nine for acquittal and three for conviction.

"Well," said the merchant to the young clerk, whom he had sent out collecting, "did you have any luck?" "Some." "I suppose you got the amount Mr. Fatherington owes. You said he was a personal friend of yours." "No, I didn't get the money; the fact is, I don't exactly know what to make of my experience there." "How was it?" "I went in and said 'Mr. Fatherington, I called to speak about a matter.' I didn't get any further, when he put in with 'That's all right, my boy, she is yours; take her and be happy.'"

DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

FOR REPRESENTATIVE,
W. F. COOPER.

FOR COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT,
M. H. LANE.

The Alabama Treadwell Steel and Iron Co., has been incorporated.

The Talladega Democratic Convention elected not only a solid delegation for Crook for Governor, but a solid delegation for Forney for Congress. Calhoun tips her hat to Talladega.

The Talladega County Democratic Convention elected a solid Crook delegation to the State Democratic Convention and nominated W. T. Webb and J. H. Wilson for the Legislature.

The men who stood up and protested against carrying the Alliance into politics at the meeting of candle-light ringers the night before the county convention, as well as those who walked out of the hall when they saw what was up, deserve the thanks of the order.

Dispatches from Washington to the press state that Gen. Forney is being discussed by Congressmen as the successor of Saml. Randall on the Committee on Rules. This is a coveted honor, by all Congressmen, and the people of Alabama would be glad to see Gen. Forney get it. The belief is that the position lies with Mr. Mills, of Texas, Mr. Crisp, of Georgia and Gen. Forney.

The Farmers' Alliance of Barbour county (Kolb's own county) refused to go into politics by endorsing him for Governor. So did the Alliance of Henry county—a county which adjoins Barbour. Down that way they appear to be Democrats when it comes to politics and Alliancemen when it comes to business. We wish we could say as much for some of the Alliance people of Calhoun.

The Anniston Hot Blast has been throwing hot shot into the men who have perverted the purposes and violated the Constitution of the Farmers' Alliance of this county by putting the order into politics, and who were parties to the rape of the Democratic party of the county at the late convention. Secret political parties are out of place in a free government and have never been known to last long. When one element of a party proscribes all other elements of that party, that action marks at once the death of the party or the faction that wages the unnatural war upon it.

It is authentically reported that one of the White Plains delegates to the late County Democratic Convention, who openly declares that he is not a Democrat, has been boasting since the convention that it is the intention of the Farmers' Alliance to take charge and run the Democratic party of this county in the future. It is said that out of a delegation of five from White Plains beat, two were not Democrats and a third was an Independent candidate in the last election. If this is the way the Alliance expects to run the Democratic party, it won't take long to run both the party and the Alliance into the ground.

In Lowndes county the Alliance went into politics and played the same game that it did in this county. The night before the county convention the Alliance delegates held a secret convention of their own and blocked out the work of the Democratic convention the day following. Result: The election of a Kolb delegation to the State Convention. Speaking of this action a State paper says:

"A secret society got hold of the Democratic organization, throttled the voice of all outside of that order's oath-bound portals, and used the party machinery to confirm and to record a previous decision. The hand is the hand of Esau, but the voice is the voice of Jacob. There was only the outward semblance of Democracy in the convention. It was to all intents and purposes an Alliance Convention."

Some of the men who led the Farmers' Alliance delegates to the late county Democratic convention into the secret convention for nomination of a Representative the night before the county convention are men who have been conspicuously unfaithful to the party of late years. They succeeded in leading some good Democrats and true men into that meeting, thereby doing them an irreparable injury, for which they will be heartily cursed by their victims before many years have passed. Some good Democrats, observing the trap that had been laid for them, walked out of the secret meeting. Others remained to expostulate and warn; but their counsels were not heeded. That meeting was under control of men who had a purpose to subvert and who cared little for either the Democratic party or the Alliance. They have not hurt the Democratic party, but have hurt the Alliance and everlastingly "busted" themselves.

When the Farmers' Alliance of this county was organized for the purpose of bettering the condition of the farmers and fighting trusts and combinations inimical to their interests, they had the good wishes and active help of every right thinking man in the county. When the good men of the order suffered a lot of candle-light politicians to dominate it and lead it to a violation of its own constitution and a perversion of its purpose, using for this purpose a lot of Independents and some men who have never claimed to be Democrats, its true friends inside and outside the order were disappointed. It looks as if the farmers can form no combination for their own material benefit which the politicians do not capture and pervert. It was so with the Agricultural Wheel. It was so with the Grange. When the Alliance was formed this danger was guarded against by placing in the constitution a clause prohibiting the order from going into politics; but it appears that even that sacred instrument is not respected by men who are bent on making of the order a political party.

No reasonable man can object to Alliancemen taking a full hand in politics. It is not only every man's privilege, but it is every man's duty to take an active interest in the conduct of the government; but this they should do as individuals and not as Alliancemen unless they abandon the claim that the order is non-political. The Republican always has and did this year urge the farmers to attend the beat meetings; but it was advising them to go as Democrats and not as Alliancemen. With as much propriety could the Methodists or Baptists or the Masons of the beats have united for the purpose of capturing the delegations and then a few hours prior to a general convention of the Democratic party in convention assembled, have slipped into the court house, and under cover of night, have combined against all other Democrats in the county who were not Methodists, Baptists or Masons, as the case might be. Had the Alliance proclaimed itself a political party instead of strenuously denying it, other parties would have been put on notice and its right to control a Democratic Convention in Calhoun would have been questioned, and the county would not have witnessed the singular spectacle of a Democratic Convention in this old Democratic stronghold dominated and controlled by a lot of Bolters, Independents and a fair sprinkling of men who never have claimed to be Democrats. But by hypocrisy and false pretense and demagogical appeals to class interest, good men and good Democrats were entrapped by these designing leaders, and the Alliance was betrayed into a violation of its own sacred constitution and the Democratic party was stabbed in the back. The effect upon the Democratic party will be ephemeral. It will recover its ground and purge its ranks at the next election. A party which hath withstood the terrific assaults of the Republican party, entrenched as that party was in power, with an army at its back and the treasury in its hand, and which hath yet won victory after victory in the face of such terrible odds, can't suffer long at the hands of a lot of cheap politicians who have used a good order unworthily. But the effect upon the order these men have betrayed will be much more serious. That is already being felt and seen in the open discontent of the order at being misrepresented and betrayed by its candle-light politicians, and in the loss of public confidence in the strength and purposes of the order. Sagacious men can see that the entry of politics into the order marks its decline, and its enemies will be emboldened and its friends will be heartened. The candle-light politicians have given the order a cruel blow.

Sam Slim shows how fairly the farmers in the late county convention were treated; and yet a writer in the Oxford paper says that the "Jacksonville clique" didn't give them a fair showing. He was thinking of his own oath-bound, dark lantern clique that conspired the night before the convention to control it against all Democrats who could not give the pass word. The best farmers in the county were proscribed by that dark-lantern ring, if they could not give the pass word, as effectually as were Democrats of other occupations. Farmers indeed! They care nothing about the farmers except those who belong to their ring. Editors, teachers, and men of no occupation at all are treated with more consideration by them than the best farmers of the county, provided those farmers do not belong to their oath-bound secret political party.

There are many men in Calhoun county who joined the Alliance for the purpose of promoting the interests of the farmer, who are not in sympathy with the recent secret political caucus. They say this is one of the very things which the Alliance opposes.—Anniston Hot Blast.

Some of the candle-light politicians freely offered to let the towns control the nomination for Representative, at the late county convention, if the towns would yield the county delegation for Kolb for Governor. And yet no doubt they went home and told their neighbors how ardently they had worked to get a farmer nominated for the Legislature.

Limestone and Lauderdale counties elected solid Richardson delegations to the State Democratic Convention.

WHAT DOES IT MEAN?
MR. EDITOR:
I see in your paper and hear used on the streets as a by-word the expression "Understand the sentiments of our Alliance, etc." What gave rise to it?

SUBSCRIBER.
During the recent meeting of the County Democratic Convention, the chairman placed Sam Cunningham, of DeArmanville Beat, on a committee. Mr. Cunningham modestly suggested that Mr. Greer, a gentleman from the same beat, who had been performing considerably, be placed on the committee in his stead.

Mr. Greer arose rather impressively and said: "Mr. Chairman, I can see no necessity for such a change. Brother Cunningham understands the sentiments of our Alliance as well as I do."

The Convention caught on and laughed and cheered. Brother Greer saw he had let the cat out of the bag and tried to explain, but his explanations were rather too thin. The brethren now say that they will retire. Brother Greer, to a back seat next time. Nobody up to date knows just exactly what Brother Greer thinks; but, no doubt, if his opinion could get out, it would be something like that of the parrot after its little "fracas" with the dog. The parrot was sitting on a goods box one day, when a dog came trotting by at a rapid rate with his tail stuck out straight. The parrot whistled to attract his attention and then cried "sickem." The dog stopped and looked about, and seeing nothing else in sight but the parrot, made for it and soon had all its feathers pulled out. The parrot finally fluttered to a point out of reach of the dog and indulged in the following colloquy: "Polly talks too d—d much."

THE "CONTRARY SIGN."
The Alliance men captured the Talladega county convention by a very large majority and nominated two good farmers and true blue Democrats to the Legislature. They also elected a delegation to the State Convention unilaterally opposed to Kolb. Their first choice is Crook and then Johnston and Jones, if he cannot get the nomination.

The Talladega Mountain Home takes the matter in good humor and says, among other bright things:

The boys who won the "ring" must not permit it to become rusty.

The former political managers of the county were caught napping last Saturday and were put in the soup.

Chairman Welch occasionally addressed the convention as "brethren" and requested them to give the "contrary sign."

Some of the boys got their tails mashed off last Saturday but they will sprout again like thunder during the next two years.

Some of the leaders who on last Saturday morning felt that the entire weight of the Democratic party was resting on their shoulders found out at thirty-two minutes after one on the same day that they were not holding up a pound of the responsibility.

SENSIBLE ALLIANCE TALK.
The following resolution, adopted by the Spring Hill Alliance and published in the issue of the Alliance Herald, has the right ring about it and makes appropriate reading matter just now for the members of the Alliance in Calhoun and other counties where secret meetings have been held and candidates nominated for representative.

Resolved 2d, That we regard as unwise any attempt on the part of the Alliance, in any of its branches, to nominate as its special candidate a man for any office, even though said nomination were made subject to the action of the Democratic party; because, in the first place, we do not believe our organization ever contemplated or intended to assume to itself the right or prerogative to say to one member, "You may run for a certain office," and to another, "You shall not." And because the Alliance nomination, even though it were made subject to the action of the Democratic party, would be the final arbiters; but would place at a disadvantage all other members not so fortunate before the final arbiters—the Democratic party—thus destroying entirely that one of our fundamental principles that says, "Equal Rights to All, and Special Favors to None." And because the principle laid down in the foregoing resolution will, without any doubt, concentrate the strength of our order before the final arbiters upon that member or man of our natural preference, possessing the greatest strength outside of our order, which is all, in reason, that we ought to expect. And because in the last place, such a course of alliance nominations would have a tendency, sooner or later, to array the masses of those who are not members of our order against us; and retard our growth and development as well as usefulness.

The Alliance is not a Democratic organization. Republicans are admitted to membership as willingly as are Democrats. In the secret caucuses held in this county, the question was never asked whether or not those who voted for the selection of a Representative were Democrats. The vote of a Republican or better in that meeting had as much weight as the vote of a man who had been true to the organization of the Democratic party all the days of his life. In view of this fact, it is not strange that the prediction in the above resolution—that it should have a tendency to array the masses of those who are not members against the Alliance.

Notwithstanding the constitution and rules of the Alliance positively forbid it, the Farmers' Alliance is now practically a secret political organization. The candidate for Representative in this county was virtually nominated at a secret night meeting where men of all political creeds who had the pass word could have been admitted, and where true and tried Democrats who were not Alliancemen could not gain admittance.—Anniston Hot Blast.

MR. COOPER'S LETTER OF ACCEPTANCE.
ALEXANDRIA, Ala.,
April 18, 1890.

To the Chairman of the Democratic Executive Committee, and the delegates composing the "late" Calhoun County Democratic Convention.

Gentlemen—Having been deprived of the pleasure of attending the convention on account of sickness in my family, I take this method of thanking you for the honored prebend given me unsolicited and unexpected by myself in nominating me as your representative in the Lower House of the next Legislature. The agreeableness of my surprise is exceeded only by my sincere appreciation of the honor and the knowledge of the great responsibility attached to the office of Representative.

To be the nominee of the great body of intelligence composing a Democratic convention in the grand old Democratic county of Calhoun is an honor, a preference appreciated by the most favored in our professional circles, much more than by a humble country man like myself, a farmer.

I thank you gentlemen from my heart, and very reluctantly accept by your nomination, trusting to your fealty to the party for my election, and your considerate council for guidance and support.

I wish simply to say that I have no special section of our country to represent, no creeds, no issues, no pledges, but the diversified interests of Calhoun county at heart, and the humblest of her citizenship's interest to subserve. We have a progressive age upon us. Calhoun, grand old Calhoun, is the peer of her sister counties in the possession of innate wealth, unbounded mineral resources, manufacturing developments and grand possibilities. These interests must be fostered with love and fidelity. If it is my privilege to represent her interests in the legislative halls of ours, the greatest of Southern States, I shall be a faithful helper in expanding her possibilities in mineral development, increased industrial wealth, and the development of her agricultural resources. No special interest should be advanced to the detriment of another, but guarded alike, her varied interests should progress hand in hand until old Calhoun—mountain vale and valley—laughs in the sunshine of industrial prosperity, and well satisfied labor harvest the wealth lavished upon us by nature.

My avocation is that of farming; I therefore have a direct and practical knowledge of the wants and necessities of the agricultural masses, and I shall advocate such legislation as will advance and protect their interests, and enhance their possibilities to recognition among the industrial classes of the world. The interest of the large and increasing population of wage-workers in our county demands the consideration justly due them. To Piedmont, Jacksonville, Anniston and Oxford, our industrial centers, the pride of our county, I shall deem it a great privilege to represent to the best of my ability your individual, varied and common interests. The success of your undertakings is of great interest to the humblest citizen of our county. I shall serve you with special attention. I will maintain, support, be governed and abide by the great Jeffersonian principles of true Democracy.

Respectfully soliciting your support, consideration and council, and thanking you again for this preference, I am
Your obedient servant,
W. PHILL COOPER.

REVIVAL OF THE DARK LANTERN.

What do real and genuine Democrats think of the selection of delegates to the State and Congressional Convention and the nomination of a candidate for Representative to the General Assembly in a secret meeting, claiming to be absolutely non-political, and composed of members of all parties and political affiliations. This is the situation of affairs in Shelby county. At a meeting of the County Alliance at Columbiana last Monday and Tuesday, tickets to the State and Congressional Conventions were agreed upon and a candidate for the Legislature nominated in the secret sessions of that organization to be voted for in the Democratic primaries next Monday. In times past such proceedings were styled dark lantern Know-Nothingism, and in these times of advanced thought and claims of improved political methods, such things are not exactly in accord with the duties and obligations of Democrats. The name of the proposed candidate for the Legislature, and the proposed delegates to the conventions will not be known until next Monday morning, and then only to Alliancemen, unless they see proper to let the facts be known to outsiders. Mark you, these selections were made in a meeting composed of men of all political parties.

The Democrats who are kept in the dark can only consult together and get out a ticket and let it be known publicly what they are doing. The matter is to be decided at a primary next Monday.

and password of the secret organization were admitted, and made the nomination of a candidate for the Legislature and agreed upon tickets to the several conventions to be selected by the Democratic Convention next day. The Anniston Hot Blast also confirms the report in a stirring and sensible article printed elsewhere. What becomes of Mr. Terrell's denunciations of secret caucuses. We ask Democrats who are aiding and abetting in this business, to pause and consider?—Montgomery Advertiser.

The following dispatches from Chilton county will be readily understood here in Calhoun, in the light of recent events:

Jemison, April 23.—Today was the day set apart by the Executive Committee of the Democratic and Conservative party of Chilton county for holding primary election to elect delegates to the county convention to be held May 3d prox.

What has heretofore been the independent element in this beat and has always voted the independent ticket turned out in force this evening took the Democratic pledge and voted a cut and dried ticket and elected it by a seventeen majority. The thing developed that the plan had been adopted secretly and acting in concert. The Alliance captured the beat. The men elected to the County Convention have hitherto been anything but Democrats.

Verbena, April 23.—At the beat meetings here today the following candidates were elected delegates to the County Convention, they being the ones receiving the highest vote: L. Moore, W. B. Jones, G. A. Northington, S. S. Scott, J. H. Bostwick, John Gaines, and J. M. Gardner. They are Alliance men and are the ticket selected at the Alliance meeting last Thursday night. Some of them have not heretofore voted with the Democratic party.

A Lucky Find.

Mr. George Wilson, who lives on the Harkins old place, near Allen's saw mill, was out in the field plowing last Saturday, when his plow struck an old metal bucket and pulled it out of the ground. Upon investigation he found it fitted with gold and silver coin amounting in all to $448.50. The latest date on any of the pieces was 1863. It is safe to say he hung his plow on the fence and spent the remainder of the day congratulating himself upon his recent good fortune.—Shelby Chronicle.

The Electropoise.

READ THE TESTIMONY

Important letter from one of the first and best men in the state, and of the firm of Miller, Caldwell & Flowers, large saw-mill company at Bolling, Ala., DuBois & Webb, Birmingham, Ala.

Gents—The three Electropoises I leased from you last July were used by my two daughters and myself. I am seventy-seven years old. For more than half a century I have suffered with chronic rheumatism, accompanied with violent cough; of late years I have had asthma, severe pain in back, shoulders and knees, and indeed I have been very much prostrated. After six months use of the Electropoise I can report a decided mitigation of all symptoms and a gain of ten pounds in weight.

My daughter, Mrs. O. H. Chandler of Montgomery, has had sciatic rheumatism for fifteen years; lately she has had dreadful swellings and shortness of breath. She is much better, though not entirely relieved of rheumatism.

My other daughter, Mrs. A. F. Haul of Evergreen, Alabama, has had asthma in severe form for twenty years. She was so weak that she was confined to her bed a great portion of her time. On the fifth night after using the Electropoise she rested well, and from that date has been able to attend to her domestic duties without assistance. Of late, owing to exposure, is not so well, but even now is a great deal better than before using the 'Poise.

Permit me to say, in conclusion, that in view of the benefit my daughters and I have derived, I have purchased the three instruments. I think this the best evidence of my appreciation of a thing, when I back up my judgment with my money. I am

Respectfully yours,

WM. H. FLOWERS.

Electro-Libration Co.

Gents—With pleasure I gratefully give my testimony as to the good work of the Electropoise in my case. I had been "going down hill" several months. Indigestion and consequent bowel affection being the trouble. Medicine did me no good. On the first of February I began using the Electropoise. "Threw physic to the dogs" and ate anything I desired, as per instruction, and began to improve at once. I have been using the 'Poise just one month—my bowels are all right, have none of the old symptoms of dyspepsia left, can eat anything I desire, have regained my strength, ten pounds in weight, and am daily improving in both. I feel better than I have felt for years, and would not be without an Electropoise. It has worked wonders in my case, and also with other members of my family. I do hope, for the sake of suffering humanity, those needing it will give the Electropoise a trial and be convinced.

IN SECRET MEETING.
Without Even the Light of a Lamp
Tickets and Candidates are Chosen.

Anniston Hot Blast.

When it comes to pass that a meeting is held at night when it is considered unwise to even have the light of a lamp, which meeting is not held in the interest of any particular candidate or candidates, but against a class of Democrats who have fought the battles of Democracy, and who under no circumstances could have gained admission to the secret meeting in question, and where only those were admitted who were in possession of a certain pass word, and where the decision of this secret night meeting definitely settled the question as to whom the Democrats of Calhoun should support for Representative, then we consider it the bounden duty of the Democratic press to raise its voice of warning and speak out against any such proceedings.

The result of the meeting in question was equivalent to the nomination of the candidate for Representative, and no business or professional man in the city of Anniston, or in any other town in the county so far as that is concerned, or three-fourths of the voters of the county, could have gained admission or had a voice in that meeting. Only those who were members of the Alliance were invited or admitted, and then notified if they should divulge any of the proceedings of that flickering candle-light-secret-caucus they should be damned irretrievably.

If such a secret meeting is in keeping with the principles of the Democracy, then we confess we know nothing of the principles of the party to which we belong.

If it is in keeping with the principles of the Farmers' Alliance, then we have been badly misinformed in the past, for Terrell and others have denounced secret caucuses in every county in Alabama.

PROBATE OF WILL.

STATE OF ALABAMA,
Calhoun County.

In Probate Court for said County, Special Term, March 31st 1890.
This day came Quitman Read and filed in court a paper purporting to be the last Will and Testament of Edw'd T. Read, deceased, and at the same time filed his petition in writing and under oath praying that, after proper proof of said Will, said Will be probated and admitted to record as the true last Will and Testament of said deceased. It is therefore ordered that the 28th day of April 1890, be and is appointed the day on which to hear said petition and to probate and admit to record said Will, and that notice thereof be given for three successive weeks by publication in the Jacksonville Republican newspaper published in said county, as a notice to the non-resident next of kin and all others interested, viz: Sarah T. Weaver, Keller, Tarrant county, Texas; Edwin T. Read, Jr., Dallas, Tarrant county, Texas, to appear in this court on the day above appointed and contest said Will if they think proper.

DEATH OF MAJ. J. F. DAILY.
Our community was startled Thursday by the receipt of a telegram announcing the death of Maj. J. F. Daily, of Piedmont. His death resulted from an attack of the "grippe" followed by pneumonia. Maj. Daily was one of the most prominent as well as one of the best men in the county. He had a peculiarly sunny temper and contentment sat at his board always. He was one of the first settlers of the county. He was a prominent member of the Episcopal church and a man of fine morals and good habits. He had numerous friends and relatives in Jacksonville who feel that his death is a great personal bereavement.
The warmest sympathies of our people go out to his stricken family.

ALABAMA NEWS.

Mr. H. J. Davis contemplates establishing at Piedmont a large manufactory for making cotton gins and agricultural implements.

The question of a cotton factory is being agitated at Clayton and subscriptions for the purpose to the amount of $35,000 have been secured. Arrangements have already begun and the East Alabama Fair Association will have an exhibition at Eufrasia this year, surpassing any of former years.

A farmer in Cullman county raised enough sweet potatoes on one acre of ground last year to supply his own family and pay for fifteen barrels of flour.

C. W. Butterworth & Co., have been granted a franchise by the city council of Florence to build a $40,000 gas works, with a capacity to supply $25,000 people with light.

For the past few weeks the Midland road has been running a daily freight train from Montgomery to Bainbridge. The decrease in freight all along the line has caused them to change the daily to a tri-weekly.

With a fertilizer factory with a capital stock of $100,000 in course of construction, and a cotton factory with a capital of $50,000, which is almost a certainty, Ozark cannot help being the biggest town in South Alabama.

CURRENT NOTES.

The heliograph is used to flash signals between stations in New Mexico and Arizona that are 75 miles apart.

Broad Street, Philadelphia, is paved with granite blocks, but there is so much complaint of noisiness that it is proposed to repave it with asphalt.

Austin, Texas, has decided to erect a dam over the Colorado River that will be the largest in the United States. It will cost $1,500,000 and develop 14,000-horse power.

There are three men in the Oregon State prison, each of whom cut off a hand to avoid work. They are confined in solitary cells. Two others cut off the ends of their fingers.

It is said that there is a stretch of country on the east side of Mad River in California, some fifty miles in length, which has been snow-bound for three months, and completely shut out from the rest of the world.

A "congress of beauty" is to be held at Rome in May. Only blondes and brunettes will be allowed to compete, and they must be between the ages of 16 and 25. There will be only two prizes, one of $2,000 and the other $1,000.

Much enduring woman, who tosses her pretty head impatiently every time she reads a paragraph on the subject of feminine curiosity, says the Chicago Times has at last, her revenge. Here is a full grown man named Albert Martin of Plainfield, N. J., who, while killing roaches with paris green, couldn't restrain his curiosity and ate some poison to see how it tasted. He found out and today is probably imparting the information to some companion floating at his side on a rosy cloud in the "dim beyond." Masculine curiosity may not be as all prevalent as the feminine kind, but it makes up for that in being 100 per cent more idiotic.

Attachment Notice.

C. J. COOPER & Co. STATE OF ALABAMA, vs. THOMAS H. DUNN. CALHOUN CO. (IN CIRCUIT COURT.)

It appearing that the above entitled cause was instituted in said court by the issuance out of an attachment against the defendant Thomas H. Dunn; that said defendant is a non-resident of this State whose place of residence is Columbus, Miss.; that said attachment has been by the Sheriff of Calhoun county, Alabama, returned to me, the Clerk of said court, after having been by him executed by levying upon the following described property, to-wit: Lots No. 6 and 7, in Block 1, and the lands west of First Street to Henry Street and south of a fifteen foot alley of Block 2 to the line of John Scott's land in the plan of the town of Davisville, in Calhoun county, Alabama, made by C. D. Camp in February, 1884 being a part of Section 2, Township 16 south and Range 9 west; also the following lands to-wit: Beginning at a stake at the southeast corner of J. A. & Kate Hughes' land, thence north twenty-two degrees, west eighteen rods to a stake, thence twenty-two rods to the Dry valley road, thence south fifteen rods to a stake at the west side of a large Iron ore rock, thence south one and one-half degrees, west twenty-five rods and thirteen links to a stake, thence in an easterly direction sixteen rods on a straight line to the beginning point estimated to contain two acres, more or less, being a portion of the north half of south-west quarter of Section 35, Township 15, of Range 9 east, in the Coosa Land district situated in Calhoun county, Alabama, also one dozen train cars, one twelve horse power Tanager & DeLaney engine, one fifteen horse power boiler, belt sixty feet, one-half dozen picks, 8 shovels, one 20 horse power boiler located at the creek, 4,700 feet water pipe, more or less, one steam pump and fixtures, one drum and wire rope, two carts, track iron on tram road, one pair Chicago scales, one sorrel horse named "Modock," three black mare mules named "Mandy," "Beck" and "Belle," three sets of tram harness, one two horse wagon, as the property of said Thomas H. Dunn. This is, therefore, to notify the said defendant of the issuance of said attachment and the execution thereof, also that said cause will stand for trial at the Fall term of said court to be held for said county at the place of holding the same on the 27th day of October, A. D. 1890.

Witness this 3rd day of April, A. D. 1890.

An Argument With A Hint.

We feel sure there must be lots of Gentlemen who are most persuaded to give Ready-made Clothing a trial, but are being shy of the result—afraid that after they get the Clothes home they wont suit them.

LISTEN!

Don't take any one else's stock as a criterion of OURS. One might look upon Snow's Creek and try to picture in it the majestic Mississippi with as much propriety. We carry lines of goods that total strangers to our competitors—in fact, there are very few of thiers in the Country who make up the fine superior grades of rics we do. When we say we are challenging the efforts of Merch Tailors, it means Just That. They boast of the perfection of the fit. We Guarantee ours to fit you perfectly in every particular. They announce the exclusiveness of their patterns. We've ha opened to us within the last few seasons the same purchasing facilities they enjoy. They look over the market side by side with us

The difference is, we buy in bolts, they buy in single suit patterns. Now, the only question is: Is it worth Double the Money to have your Clothing cut for you personally? To a man you'll say

NO!

And you're right. Now, you hesitators WE take all the responsibilities, we're behind our Clothes to the end—literally. If they're not absolutely satisfactory all the way through—we want to know.

There never was a claim made to us that wasn't adjusted speedily and satisfactorily—and you're given the benefit of all the doubts everytime. We are not doing business just for now,—but for the future as well.
